Message From CEO

Tsou said, "give a man a fish, he eats one meal, but teach a man to fish, and he eats for a lifetime." (paraphr.)

It is by this premise we introduce Forward and Upward, Inc., DBA: Onward and Upward. This is a non-profit 501 (c) 3 established to level the playing field in the online job market.

Did you know that if you do not have your own computer with reliable internet you cannot compete in the online job market? I do not know about you, but living in a country where we tout "equality" this fact does not sit well. So, someone once said, "if you do not like what you see, change it!" That is exactly what we are doing with the Onward and Upward Community Online Work Center.

Just imagine a workspace with cubicles only in this scenario they are for people who otherwise could not work for an online employer. It is at these cubicles that people without their own computers (and own homes) can work part-time or full-time performing job tasks for an online employer. They are also getting supervised and mentored so that after six months they graduate from the program and take their computer (the one they had been working with) home where they continue working from the comfort of their home.

It takes a special discipline and dedication when working online work at home jobs. It is this discipline our clients develop and learn soft job skills in the process. We have monthly online classes in business interpersonal communication, conflict negotiation, reliability/dependability, networking, stress management, budgeting & money management. Our clients come away with the dedication, discipline, and know-how it takes to always be working and be sustainably financially independent.

Hi AnnaMaria,

Just wanted to send you a note and say thank you for your expertise in helping people find great employment.

After reading your book, I had some questions so I called you and after a 10 minute conversation, you had inspired me to look at opportunities I had never thought of. I used your search method and found a school looking for a music teacher, sent my resume, and got a call back the next day. I start next week.

It's seems like the perfect opportunity for me. The school is revolutionary, and extraordinary in it's teaching methods; that's the perfect culture for me to flourish.

Please feel free to use my story on your website to let others how well your system works.
