Playoff Seeding

Will be determined by win/loss record. If two teams finish with the same record and played each other head to head, the team that won the head to head matchup will get the higher seed. If teams did not play each other in group play, it will be based off of point differential.

Point differential will be capped out at 20 points in an individual game.

If two teams with the same record also finish with the same point differential, a coin toss will determine the higher seed.
