Hello Tim,

I don't understand.

I have it in writing from you not so long ago that the district had no intention of buying any property. And in a recent meeting you 'suggested' that the money that was stashed to buy land to build a community health clinic in partnership with PCHS would instead be used to offset how far over budget (my words on budget) for the pool re-do project. So first there is a dispute and tongue lashing for the community finding out about this stashed money even outside of a district meeting, when it was public knowledge among school district employees already, prior to any special/exec. session meeting about land purchase. That insult was bad enough in my opinion. And in the past these funds appeared for use of capital projects list of things to do, then it vanished from the capital projects list. NO one ever said where that money ended up. And of course the one point something million is not chump change, yet I have never been able to get an answer from your chief financial office or anyone else just where the district 'parked' this money. Again, you said no intentions of the district to buy any property. Now this?

Worse thing in the here and now it will be done in secret (special meeting on 28th) and I assume the community will have nothing to say about how these capital levy dollars will be spent. And just how open and transparent is this. Apparently the community has nothing to say about it. I get the part about the privilege to use exec. session in order to try to fend off some kind of bidding war bother others interested in same property. I suspect it is already to late to purchase whatever land you have in mind for any unknown purpose, as the district as a day late and a dollar short the last time the bid to buy adjoining property to expand the high school

I understand you can't tell me what property but I can ask you what the property purpose would be for? Do I need to expedite a request for public information to 'discover' what the plan is on this?
