

Upon assuming office as California State's Superintendent of Public Instruction I will:

1. Immediately suspend any curriculum framework currently in the process of being reviewed. Upon the advice of legal counsel, I will re-open the public review and comment period for any curriculum framework not fully adopted and ask for a broader cross-section of parents to offer feedback on the proposals.
2. Direct staff to perform a "Kids First" audit of the California Department of Education (CDE) and its $100 million-plus budget appropriations and expenditures. Any positions or programming not explicitly authorized in statute or the 2022-23 budget's legal citations and authorities will be reallocated or eliminated. I will propose any program that does not prioritize children's education at the local education authority be omitted in future budget proposals. I will regularly be asking the legislature to have the funds follow the children with as little bureaucratic bloat as possible.
3. Reclassify an existing executive advisor within the Superintendent's office as the Chief Parent Advocate and charge them with being the principal liaison on all issues and concerns brought to the office by parents.
4. Invite every school board trustee and district superintendent in the state to a town hall in Sacramento within the first month of my administration to discuss our respective constitutional authorities and responsibilities and where the State Superintendent's office can appropriately defer or relinquish authority to local education officials under current law. We will find ways to simplify various educational processes to allow greater participation by local school districts and parents. Any agreements will be submitted to the legislature to change state law accordingly.
5. Assemble a Red Team Task Force to recommend substantive changes to the Education Code through a public process. As there is general agreement on statutory or constitutional changes to improve public education and protect parental authority, I would submit those proposals to the legislature or support ballot initiative measures going to the voter for their approval.
