

Back on the Trail (Anthony Version)

INT. GCC - DAY

Despite the familiarity of the voice coming from the room, Anthony and the Player decide against investigating the voice's origin.

ANTHONY

You know what, you're right. That voice sounds creepy as HECK, and honestly, who would ever come up with such a ridiculous idea like investigating a creepy voice when we have laundry to do?

Anthony tries laughing off the situation to make the vibe less awkward, thus making the vibe feel awkwarder.

ANTHONY

Aaaaanyways, let's get out of here before we get sidetracked.

The Player and Anthony make their way out of the GCC. The Player looks at Anthony while walking to see a dejected look on his face. Anthony makes eye contact with the Player, and they both stop walking.

ANTHONY

Hey, I'm sorry for dragging you around for this. That's on me.

The Player waves off Anthony's negative self-talk and pats Anthony on the shoulder.

ANTHONY

Thanks; I appreciate it.

After Anthony responds to the Players kind gesture, Anthony's face lights up, as if he's come up with an idea. A lightbulb appears over Anthony's head as his face lights up.

ANTHONY

Yo, wait a minute, I have an idea. Hear me out, instead of using machines for washing our clothes, what if we washed them... by hand???

Back on the Trail (Audrey Version)

INT. GCC - DAY

Despite the familiarity of the voice coming from the room, Audrey and the Player decide against investigating the voice's origin.

AUDREY

Hey Anthony, the Player is right. Those voices are way too creepy to check out.

ANTHONY

Completely understandable, even though I feel like it'd be fun for all of us to check this out. I'll catch up with you both later though.

AUDREY

For sure, see you later.

Audrey and the Player start to walk out of the GCC. The Player looks back for a second to see Anthony walk towards the room where the sound came from, but looks forward again as they have made their decision already. After Audrey and the Player walk away from the GCC, Audrey's face lights up, as if she's come up with an idea. A lightbulb appears over Audrey's head as her face lights up.

AUDREY

Yo wait, I have an idea. Hear me out, what if we washed the clothes... by hand???