The First Presbyterian Church of Seneca Falls

Pastor's Corner

It occurred to me that I was accepted into a Doctor of Ministry Program, but I didn't explain what it means or, more importantly, what it means for us as a church.

This degree is meant to be done in a particular context; the coursework is in relationship to the work I do for the church. Therefore, it doesn't involve moving or leaving the church to become a full-time student. The hope is this will enhance what I do for the church.

The Doctor of Ministry Degree is generally a cohort-driven professional doctoral degree providing space for renewal, growth, companionship among peers, and rich dialogue with faculty. The purpose of the Doctor of Ministry Degree Program at Pittsburgh Theological Seminary is to engage the challenges, opportunities and vocation of ministry through a systematic and sustained curriculum involving disciplined study and reflection over a period of three to four years. The program is based on a cohort model that facilitates peer relationships and shared learning throughout the D.Min. journey. Classes meet in two-week blocks twice per year for 2.5 years. The doctoral project at the end of coursework is undertaken under the supervision of carefully selected faculty. The project provides an opportunity for candidates to explore in-depth an aspect of their ministry to which they seek to bring new insight, knowledge, and imagination.¹

There are 12 of us in the program from a variety of states and denominations, though predominantly Presbyterian. For many of us it was the first time we had been students in 20 years. By the end of our two weeks together, we each had a starting Research Question, though we have been informed that this will change at least six more times. It has already changed twice.

The mission practice I intend to focus on is stewardship. My current draft of Research Question: What do the stories and practices of good stewardship say about our church identity in the surrounding community and the legacy we desire to leave?

I still have to define "good stewardship" and other ideas also need to be flushed out, but this is the start of this journey. While I will be doing the class work, reading, studying, etc., I will also need your input and help when the time comes, so thank you. Thank you for giving me the courage to bravely be me and become a student again after 20 years. Thank you for helping my family in this transition. Thank you for your support, it is a priceless gift for which I am grateful.

While the research doesn't start for two years, the work of ministry has never ended. Please feel free to ask me questions. Peace.

CONCERT TO HONOR HEDRA HARRISON

Following a valiant eight-month battle with pancreatic cancer, Hedra Ruth Harrison went to be with Jesus on January 1, 2022. We thought in order to honor Hedra's life, we would have a music concert to raise money in support of the Pancreatic Cancer Action Network. Hedra was an incredible musician. She sang, played the piano, the organ, the trumpet, the drums, the guitar, the banjo...honestly, it might be easier to name the instruments she didn't play. Hedra loved music - all genres and styles.

The Concert will be held on FRIDAY, AUGUST 26th at 7pm, at The First Presbyterian Church of Seneca Falls, NY, where Hedra served as the Music Director and Organist. Featured will be musicians that Hedra played with and taught, and you'll hear a variety of styles and genres of music. We encourage you to attend the concert, and to make donations to end pancreatic cancer. By giving to our team, you are helping to accelerate progress and improve patient outcomes.

Please make a donation today to help us reach our fundraising goal, and join us on August 26th for an evening of wonderful music!
