

	Mental	Mythic	Magic
Instinctual	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>You have been given conceptual models/maps.</li> <li>You react based off these maps.</li> <li>Logical responses tend toward Yes/No, Good/Bad, Black/White solutions.</li> <li>Responses typically focus on self instead of the whole.</li> <li>Desire to make others conform to your maps when in disagreement.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>A story that has been provided to you or arises up unconsciously.</li> <li>Believing in things that are greater than everyday life.</li> <li>Appeals to a very basic need and drives wonderment, awe, and terror.</li> <li>Connects us to our past.</li> <li>Effort is put in to avoid suffering.</li> <li>Desire to get to a form of titillation or control.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>The wonderment when things that happen that cannot be explained.</li> <li>A deep connection to both positive and negative elements that arise in our lives.</li> <li>The felt-sense that somethings happen by other forces which are beyond your control or ability to grasp mentally or mythically.</li> <li>Magic happens to us.</li> </ul>
Intentional	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Understand we each may have different maps.</li> <li>You realize that you can change your response to your maps.</li> <li>Begin to find best solutions are based off multiple maps and or parts of maps.</li> <li>Solutions begin to be focused on the betterment of Self and the Whole.</li> <li>Begin to notice that multiple truths can exist.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Beginning to understand that people all have stories and are always telling stories.</li> <li>Knowing that people's stories are not your stories.</li> <li>Stories can link mental thought and magical experiences.</li> <li>Stories help address key success elements that basic mental thought will miss.</li> <li>Using stories can help enhance understanding when there are disconnects between mental maps.</li> <li>Understanding that you and others are suffering, and your response should address that collective suffering.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>You sense that magic happens not by outside forces but from the engagement of the self and the whole.</li> <li>Magic appears to arise through the alignment of many iterations of effort.</li> <li>You begin to sense that you, as well as others, are involved in allowing this magic to arise.</li> </ul>
Integral	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Seeing the spaces between the maps.</li> <li>Solutions are there that are not on anyone's maps.</li> <li>Betterment of the whole is betterment of the self.</li> <li>Best solutions are generated from integration of the spaces between magic/mythic/mental.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>You realize that there are stories that have yet to be told.</li> <li>It is the crossing between the things we do not know and the things we do know.</li> <li>Finding a new story to potentially find a new solution.</li> <li>Stories are a pathway to explaining magical events and creating better mental understandings.</li> <li>Suffering is a positive part of life and the ability to grow, and suffering needs to be accounted in the solution.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>It is a glimpse into the unknown, a beacon.</li> <li>The beautiful alignment of 1000s of uncontrollable variables that can provide an insight into other worlds/feelings/dimensions/solutions.</li> <li>Helps you dream up / develop more and better stories.</li> <li>Helps you imagine greater mental insights.</li> <li>It happens for you (and everyone who is paying attention).</li> </ul>