

BIO

Alim Ladha

Alim is the Founder of Instill Education, a recently accredited private university startup aiming to transform the quality of learning in every African classroom thru evidence-informed, tech-enabled interventions for pre-service and in-service teachers. Alim brings 10+ years of experience in education and labor market reform work. He was an executive in charge of innovation at Harambee Youth Employment Accelerator and the Founding CEO of African Leadership University (a Fast Company Most Innovative Company). Previously, Alim was a leader of McKinsey & Company's Education and Organization practices where he led over 30+ projects in public sector and education reform across the Middle East, Africa and South East Asia. Alim currently serves on the Board of Streetlight Schools and is an advisor to several education innovators.