OAKWOOD CEMETERY

It can truly be said that the history of Jefferson is written in this old cemetery. With its estimated 14,000 graves, it bears silent witness to the growth and decline of our historic old town.

Historians do not agree on the exact date of the founding of Jefferson, nor is it certain just when what is now known as Oakwood Cemetery had its beginning. In 1871 the City of Jefferson brought suit to recover the land known as "the old graveyard tract" (in Reconstruction days called the Federal Camps and now Sandtown), and the pleadings in this suit furnish us the following: In 1842 Berry H. Durrum "was residing on and had an interest in 640 acres located . . . on the waters of Big Cypress in the County of Bowie, Republic of Texas." Durrum "proposing and intending to build a town or city" laid the land off in "blocks and lots . . . together with . . . pleasure grounds and a public graveyard." A map was drawn off by Jesse Cherry and the town was "named and designated Jefferson" and the land shown as a public graveyard was donated and given by the said Durrum to the inhabitants of the town. Allen Urquhart also asserted an interest in this land, and in 1845 Durrum and Urquhart entered into an agreement "declaring and establishing their respective interests", by which it was decided that the legal title to the 7 acres for the cemetery was in Urquhart. March 4, 1847, Durrum and Urquhart made a deed to the cemetery in confirmation of the donation and grant previously made by Durrum.

However, it was generally agreed by the people that the Sandtown burying ground "owing to the want of a firm and clay foundation and owing to the loose, open and loaming condition and character of the same and earth therein, was wholly unsuited and unfit for the use and purpose of a burying ground and so at the entreaties of the public, and the newspapers published in said town, the said Urquhart, who was the principal owner of the tract of land upon which said town was plotted, surveyed and located, at the instance and urgent solicitations of the people and citizens of said town and especially at the instance of said citizens who had buried their dead thereon, agreed to substitute another more fitting place in considerations of charity and upon the abandonment of the said land unused as a burying place and return thereof to him, . . . and he did substitute another larger and more beautiful and fitting public burying place in lieu thereof and thereupon dedicated, destined and set apart the same to the public and to all the citizens of said town of Jefferson, and the same was thereupon accepted by the public and all or nearly all of the dead interred upon said land . . . were disinterred by their friends and transferred to land set apart by the said Urquhart where they now repose, and . . . for more than twenty years none of the citizens of said town of Jefferson have used or claimed the land described . . . but on the contrary the said land substituted is the present city cemetery of the city of Jefferson. . ." A jury found in favor of the defendant and the city did not recover.

The "substituted tract" has been known as Oak Hill Cemetery, City Cemetery and now Oakwood. From the foregoing it seems not only possible but entirely probable that Benjamin Foscue, who died January 4, 1850, and whose grave is marked by the oldest stone listed in this cemetery, was buried in Oakwood at that time.

The Act to Incorporate the town of Jefferson was passed March 20, 1848, and the Charter is dated 1854. However, the earliest Minutes of the City now available begin in 1857. On November 21 of that year the Mayor was authorized to contract for cleaning off and fencing an "additional three acres of land for the graveyard" and he ordered that it be laid off in suitable lots and sold for the benefit of the corporation.

Late in 1870 a city ordinance was passed requiring that all deaths be reported to the city sexton with the "name, age and color and cause of death". (These records comprise a separate section of this book beginning on page 226.) In 1872 the sexton asked for a committee to "assist him in arranging proper location of lots in city cemetery" and later that same year the city surveyor was instructed to survey the cemetery and make a map. That same year the "ladies of the cemetery committee" asked the mayor to improve the road and sidewalks leading to the city cemetery and reported that "by their united efforts" they had succeeded in raising a small fund to have a well dug on the cemetery grounds and "other improvements in so far as our means will go."

Additions have been made in the intervening years. The deed to The Hebrew Benevolent Association of Jefferson for the Jewish section (Block P) which adjoins on the north is dated September 20, 1867, and one inscription there reads: "I. Pinski, died 1867. The First President of the Hebrew Benevolent Association of Jefferson". In February 1880 a City Ordinance established the Catholic Cemetery on the south side of Oakwood (Block J). Beginning in the middle 1880's P. T. Norwood of Bowie County gave deeds to the individual lots in the addition which bears his name (Block I). About 1903 another large tract was added on the west (Blocks L, M and N) and the colored people started their own separate burying ground. Before 1903 they were buried in Oakwood. In 1929 the "New Section" or "Highway Addition" was acquired to bring Oakwood to its present size.

The Oakwood Cemetery is owned by the City of Jefferson and records of interments have not been kept since 1956.

Old Section - Block "S"

This section was originally designated "Federal Soldiers" and the following quotation is from "A History of Jefferson, Marion County, Texas" compiled in 1936 by Mrs. Arch McKay and Mrs. H. A. Spellings:

"Following the Civil War many Federal soldiers were buried here. This is one mass of shrubs, graves and trees, with few markers, and only a guess can tell one where the soldiers in blue, who died in this part of the world, found their resting place."

There are no marked graves in this section now.

This section is not divided into lots, and many of the stones are broken and piled under the trees.

NEW PROSPECT CEMETERY

The New Prospect Cemetery is located five miles north of Jefferson on State Highway 59, adjoining the New Prospect Baptist Church. Owned by the community, it is managed by a board of three trustees and has been used from the early 1880's to the present time. Records of interments are not kept but an annual memorial service is held at the cemetery.

LOCKETT CEMETERY

Lockett Cemetery is near the Cass County line north of Jefferson and is reached by turning off Highway 59 about 7 miles north of town at the Dreesen fruit stand and traveling west approximately one mile. It was used from the early 1860's to 1930 as the family burying ground on land given by Royal F. Lockett for that purpose. Inside the fence, in addition to those graves with inscribed stones, there are at least sixteen graves marked with native rocks. It has been reliably reported by the oldest living member of the Lockett family that these include members of the following families: Lowther, Dreesen, Ward, McAlexander, Price and Pierce, in addition to the grave of a "Yankee" soldier who died in the vicinity who was buried outside the fence. No record has been kept of interments. (See map in front of book.)

PRUITT CEMETERY

Pruitt Cemetery is located on what is now known as "Old Haggerty" plantation just south of the Cass County line and about 2-1/2 miles east of Highway 59. There is no road to this deserted old cemetery and no evidence that it has been used since the date of the last tombstone in 1864. It is said to have originally been used as a burial ground for a tribe of wealthy Indians and may be 150 years old. Most of the stones have disappeared in recent years and only a few remain. (See map in front of book for location. Also see notes on Haggerty Creek and Drew Cemeteries, page 188.)

John H. McLean in his "Boyish Recollections of Jefferson, its Vicinity and Folks" says that he came to this section in 1842. "Ours was about the first family to settle in the big woods north of where Jefferson was later located. The following neighbors settled in quick succession about us: Tom Kimble, Eli and William Moore, the McAdoos, Simeon Rogers, Ellen Bryan, James Pruitt, Mrs. Rebecca Haggerty, and the Willersons and Drews. In the Bend were Flemming Jones and family, the Coopers, the Rives, Capt. Rose and family, Col. Bob Potter and others." He names as his schoolmates out of these families: "Jack, Bill, Nancy and Sarah Moore; Columbus McAdoo; Will and Tol Pruitt; Clem Galloway; Anna Hawkins; Kiametia Willerson and Sister; Bill and Jim Reeves; LaFayette Rhea; Matt Graham; Ripley Rose; Tom, Cap and Jack Scott; Bill and Mutt Crawford; Cas, John, Bill and Tom Bryan; Gus Durham; Louis Todd; Jim and Joe Cutler; Jane Scott, John Wilson and a brother and young Mr. McFarland."

JONES CEMETERY

Jones Cemetery is the family burying ground of the J. M. Jones family located about 2-1/2 miles west of Jefferson adjoining the office of International Paper Company on Highway 49. It has not been used for half a century. The Jones home was what is now the Berea community and the plantation took in the site of this little burying ground with its overground marble vaults enclosed in a wall of native rock. KELLYVILLE CEMETERY

Kellyville Cemetery is located about a mile northeast of the community of Kellyville on a dirt road that turns off Highway 49 in front of the store, four and a half miles west of Jefferson. There are two historical markers placed in this community by the State of Texas. "Kellyville was named for George Addison Kelly, died in 1909, proprietor of an early foundry which cast cow bells widely used by ox team freighters. After 1860 his foundry turned out the first modern plows used in Texas." The other marker is on the "site of an early bell foundry. From a log blacksmith shop in 1854 grew a bell foundry owned by G. A. Kelly which manufactured cow bells widely used by pioneer ox team freighters. Later the Kelly Plow, one of the first modern plows made in Texas, was manufactured here." (See map in front of book for location.)

More than 100 years ago Mr. Kelly and four other men donated 13 acres of ground for camp meeting grounds, setting aside 3 acres for a community cemetery. The church and academy built at that time are no longer standing, but the cemetery is still in use.

At one time this little community of about a dozen houses was a village of a thousand or more inhabitants, with a 20-room hotel, a newspaper and other businesses.

Records of interments are not kept, but the cemetery lots are free to the members of the community.

BEREA CEMETERY

Berea Cemetery is located in the Berea community 5 miles northwest of Jefferson on Farm Road 728 which intersects State Highway 49 about 2 miles west of Jefferson. In 1914 J. W. McChuchen sold the land for a Seventh Day Adventist Colony, setting aside a plot for the cemetery. The lots are free to the inhabitants of the Colony. Felix Chastain was the first person buried there.

FOWLER CEMETERY

Fowler Cemetery is located in the Liberty Community about 12 miles northwest of Jefferson on Farm Road 728 which intersects State Highway 49 2 miles west of Jefferson. It is in a wooded area just southwest of the Liberty church. There is no road to it and it has not been used for half a century. The Fowler family moved from Alabama and settled near the site of this cemetery before 1840. In 1848 they moved about 3 miles into Cass County but continued to use this as a family burying ground. There are about twenty graves in all but only a few with markers. (See map in front of book.)

PYLAND CEMETERY

Pyland Cemetery is located on State Highway 49 two miles northwest of Lassater, a community ten miles west of Jefferson. It has been in use for almost a century on ground donated for a community cemetery by J. D. Pyland. It is thought that the first person buried there was an unknown soldier during the Civil War.

JOHNSON CEMETERY

Johnson Cemetery is located a mile south of Avinger, Texas, and cannot be reached by car. A century or more ago when it was first used it was in a community on the main road between Jefferson and Daingerfield. There is one older tombstone in Marion County than that of Mr. Johnson dated 1848. The latest marker is 1921 and the cemetery has not been used since that time. Although the only stones are for members of the Johnson family, there is evidence of other graves there, and it is reliably reported that they are for members of the Allen, Lineberger and Barnes families who also lived in the community. BEAMER CEMETERY (DAVIS)

Beamer Cemetery (also known as the Davis Cemetery) is located in the western part of the county off a dirt road that runs north and south between State Highway 49 and Farm Road 729. It cannot be reached by automobile. It was originally the family burying ground on the Beamer Plantation. Joseph P. Beamer was the first to be buried there, and he gave the land to his daughter, Augusta Jane Beamer Davis. (See map at front of book for location.)

WEBB CEMETERY

Webb Cemetery is 8 or 9 miles west of Jefferson off a dirt road that runs north and south between State Highway 49 and Farm Road 729. It cannot be reached by automobile. This is one of the oldest and largest cemeteries in Marion County, but there are only a few graves left with stones. Charles Webb brought his wife and some of his children here from Alabama about 1855, and this cemetery is on the old Webb farm. It has not been used in this century.

MIMS CHAPEL CEMETERY

Mims Chapel Cemetery is located about 14 miles northwest of Jefferson on Farm Road 729 which intersects State Highway 49 4 miles west of Jefferson. The cemetery adjoins the property of the Methodist church and both are on land donated for that purpose before the Civil War by one of the pioneer settlers in that area. No deed has been found of record, and it is not certain whether the land was given by Colonel Henry Augusta Mims or by Dr. J. L. Nash. Shortly before the turn of the century the school was moved from the farm of Colonel Mims to the vicinity of the church, then known as the old "Rock Church", and from then on the community was known as Mims Chapel. The ground is still free for burial of the residents of the community but no record is kept of interments. It is thought that the first grave is that of a little girl whose father had been employed to help build the old "Rock Church" before the Civil War, although no marker was ever erected, and the overground brick mound has crumbled.

WALKER CEMETERY

Walker Cemetery is on the old "Walker Place Farm" a little over 3 miles south of Jefferson on what was the old, original Marshall road -- now a gravel road. Only one marker remains today, although as late as 1915 there were 8 graves, seven of which had markers. These markers have disappeared now, supposedly stolen, as all were large substantial ones of marble. Before the Civil War the Walker family were people of wealth and lived on the farm.

SMITH CEMETERY

Smith Cemetery is about 4 miles southwest of Jefferson on the Harleton Road, reached by turning west off State Highway 50 at the triangle a mile southwest of Jefferson. It was the family burying ground on the Smith farm and has been used as recently as 1956. It is fenced and well kept.

YORK CEMETERY

York Cemetery is half a mile in the woods east of Farm Road 248 at a point about half a mile from where it intersects State Highway 49 east of Jefferson. It was originally the family burying ground of the York family and there are many unmarked graves. It has not been used in this century and no records are available. The land was given by Wesley York whose first wife was a Logan. He and his first and second wives are all buried there.

OLD FOUNDRY CEMETERY

Old Foundry Cemetery is located on the Lodi Road (Farm Road 248) about 7 miles northeast of Jefferson, and is reached by following State Highway 49 east to its intersection with Farm Road 248. Five acres of land was donated for a church and cemetery by Joseph Minter in 1859. The cemetery has been used from that date to the present time and is beautifully kept by the "Old Foundry Cemetery Association" through the personal supervision of a board of three trustees. No record is kept of interments; however Mr. W. S. Ford of Jefferson is an honorary trustee and can supply information about it. Regular "workings" are held when all those interested come and spend the day. The first graves are those of two Durrum children who died before the gift of the land by Mr. Minter.

MATHEWS CEMETERY

Mathews Cemetery is in the Grange Hall Community about 8 miles east of Jefferson. This community is reached by going east on State Highway 49 from Jefferson to "Hasty Hill" and taking the dirt road that turns off to the left. The cemetery is almost a quarter of a mile to the right of the dirt road and cannot be reached by automobile. It was the family burying ground of the Mathews family but has not been used for half a century. It is fenced and well kept.

TRINITY CEMETERY

Trinity Cemetery is on the grounds of the Trinity Church in the Grange Hall community east of Jefferson about 8 miles. It can be reached by going east on State Highway 49 to "Hasty Hill", a distance of about 5 miles, and taking the dirt road that turns off to the left. J. F. Kindred and wife, Ardonia, in 1889 deeded two acres for a community church and burial ground. No records are kept, but each year on May 30 the people of the community have a "cemetery working" and spend the day.

TAYLOR CEMETERY

Taylor Cemetery is in the Grange Hall community about 8 miles east of Jefferson, and about 2 miles north of State Highway 49. It is half a mile off the dirt road through the woods and cannot be reached by automobile. Ward Taylor, Sr., donated the land for the cemetery. His son, Dr. Marion DeKalb Taylor, was a surgeon in the Civil War and at one time Speaker of the House of Texas. This cemetery has not been used for more than half a century, and no records are available.

MOSELEY CEMETERY

Moseley Cemetery (sometimes called "Whatley") is located about 12 miles east of Jefferson and just southeast of the intersection of Farm Road 805 with State Highway 49. It was originally the family burying ground of the Tom Moseley family who lived there in pioneer days, and was later used by other families in the vicinity. Although there is evidence of a dozen or more graves, only two are marked with stones.

FRAZIER CEMETERY

Frazier Cemetery is about 3/4 of a mile north of Highway 49 at a point 10 miles east of Jefferson. There is no road to it, although interments have been made within the past twenty years. The Frazier family at one time lived there, but others in the community used the cemetery, too. There are many unmarked graves.

FITZGERALD CEMETERY

Fitzgerald Cemetery is on Highway 43 less than a mile from its intersection with Highway 49 about 12 miles east of Jefferson. Although there is only one marker, there are at least six graves. Descendants of the original owners still live here, but the cemetery is no longer in use. It was a family burying ground.

BROWNING CEMETERY

Browning Cemetery is in the eastern part of the county just east of Highway 43 about a mile from its intersection with State Highway 49. Although there are a dozen or more graves, only two have stones bearing inscriptions. Interments have not been made there for at least twenty-five years. The two markers are at the graves of pioneer citizens for whom the community of Smithland was named.

SMITHLAND CEMETERY

The Smithland Cemetery is just to the north of State Highway 49 in the village of Smithland 15 miles east of Jefferson. It was started as a family burying ground by the J. W. Moseley family but was later made available to all the residents of the community. The land has never been set aside as a cemetery, and no records are kept of interments. STALLCUP CEMETERY

Stallcup Cemetery is in the eastern part of the county about 5 miles northeast of Smithland, a community 15 miles east of Jefferson on Highway 49. There is no longer a road to this cemetery, although it was used as recently as 1937. It is the old family burying ground of the Will Stallcup family, but the house is gone except for a few fruit trees and some rocks.

MONTEREY CEMETERY

Monterey Cemetery is on the Texas-Louisiana State Line north of State Highway 49 on Monterey Lake. The only access road to this area now is from the Louisiana side of the Lake. Before the line between the United States and Mexico was settled, around 1819 or 1820, this particular section was in dispute and people who were running away from the law found haven here. There was no law at Monterey and they were safe. It became a steamboat landing and a settlement of about 1,000 inhabitants. A United States Post Office was established there August 1, 1878. There is nothing at all left of this old town except the cemetery, and although there are more than a hundred graves, only two markers remain. These two are inside an iron fence, and old settlers say the men were related. (See map in front of book for location.)

BURKS-HART CEMETERY

Burks-Hart Cemetery is on the Texas-Louisiana State Line, one and a half miles north of State Highway 49. This cemetery had its beginning during the frontier days of Monterey, Texas, and came about as a result of Bob Hunt's killing Wiley Mebane, a native of this locale. As was the custom in those early days, the family buried Wiley on his plantation near his home. The cemetery has grown through the years and is a well kept, fenced area with the name Burks-Hart over the double entrance gate. (See map in front of book for location.)

POTTER CEMETERY

Potter Cemetery is at Potter's Point on Caddo Lake, reached by traveling east on State Highway 49 about 20 miles to the intersection of Farm Road 727, and then south about 5 miles to the Lake. Robert Potter was murdered and buried here in March 1842. Potter served as Secretary of the Navy of the Republic of Texas, having been a Member of the U. S. Congress from his native North Carolina. He came to Texas in 1835 and distinguished himself as a hero at San Jacinto. For this action he was awarded a land grant on Caddo or Ferry Lake, and this tract is now known as Potter's Point. During the Texas Centennial celebration his body was exhumed from the grave on the hill overlooking Caddo Lake and taken to Austin, Texas, where a monument was erected to the Fighting statesman, one of the most colorful figures of his time. The little cemetery is still in use and there are a number of unmarked graves inside the fence. (See map at front of book for location.)

RIVES CEMETERY

Rives Cemetery is at Bonham's Landing on Caddo Lake near the Texas-Louisiana State Line. It is reached by following State Highway 49 to the State Line, a distance of about 21 miles from Jefferson, and turning south on the dirt road that runs down to the Lake. This cemetery contains the oldest marker in the county, 1846, and has not been used for almost a century.

WRIGHT CEMETERY

Wright Cemetery is in the Jackson community about 15 miles west and slightly south of Jefferson. It can be reached by the old Harleton road or the road over Ferrell's Dam, both terminating in the vicinity of this cemetery. It is enclosed with a fence and has one large monument with small individual markers for the separate graves. It is the family burying ground of the Wright family whose home was here for many years.

GREENWOOD CEMETERY

Greenwood Cemetery is in the old Jackson community about 16 miles west and slightly south of Jefferson. It is a mile or more south of Ferrell's Dam and can be reached by following State Highway 49 west about 4 miles, left on Farm road 729 about 2 miles, then left again on Farm road 726 to within a quarter of a mile of Watt's Store intersection to a dirt road that again turns left. It is about a mile through the fields and woods. There are fifty or sixty graves in this old cemetery, but only two inscribed markers are left.

There are at least six cemeteries in Marion County that no longer have inscribed tombstones which should be included in this record. They are as follows:

HAGGERTY CREEK CEMETERY

Haggerty Creek Cemetery (see map in front of book for location) is about 3 miles southwest of the Pruitt Cemetery described on page 109. It is just about a mile east of State Highway 59 near the Cass County line but there is no road to it now. Within the past few years all of the tombstones have disappeared. Old settlers say that at one time there were several very large and beautiful monuments in this now deserted cemetery. It is thought to be the family burying ground of the Haggerty family. Mrs. Rebecca McIntosh (Hawkins) Haggerty was the daughter of General William McIntosh (1778-1825), who himself was part Indian and who negotiated the treaty with the Creek Indians. The DAR chapter in Jackson, Georgia, is named for him. Rebecca married Benjamin Hawkins, who was also part Indian, in 1830 in Indian Territory and moved to what is now Marion County, Texas, in 1834. Hawkins was killed in 1835 or 1836 and she continued to live on the Ben Hawkins Headright Survey. She married Spire Haggerty about 1838. Spire Haggerty, Jr., was born here in March 1849, the same year that his father died in Montgomery, Alabama. Spire, Jr., died in the Exchange Hotel in Jefferson in 1886 and it is thought he is buried in this old family cemetery. After the death of her son, Mrs. Haggerty left the old home (known as "Old Refuge") and returned to Indian Territory where she died and is buried. (See historical note re Pruitt Cemetery, page 109.)

DREW CEMETERY

Drew Cemetery is located on what is now known as the J. O. Jackson farm on Farm Road 248 about 4 miles northeast of Jefferson. (See map in front of book for location.) It was originally the family burying ground of the William Drew family. Delilah McIntosh Drew was the sister of Rebecca McIntosh Hawkins Haggerty (see Haggerty Creek, above, and Pruitt Cemetery, page 109). J. O. Jackson bought this property from the widow Drew in 1878, and in 1891 a United States Post Office was established there by the name of Comet. Although there are several mounds of native rock under a grove of trees, no inscribed tombstones are to be found in this long-deserted cemetery.

TODD CEMETERY

Todd Cemetery is 6 miles down Big Cypress River from Jefferson and is reached by traveling east on State Highway 49 about 5 miles and turning right onto the dirt road that goes south to the river. It is the present site of Thompson's Camp. This was known as Smithland in the early days and was the steamboat terminal before the river was open all the way to Jefferson. In his "Boyish Recollections of Jefferson, its Vicinity and Folks", John H. McLean says that "prior to Jefferson, Mr. James Todd of Smithland, did the business of that community. Mr. Todd was the father of your old and honored citizen, Mr. Louis Todd. Louis and I were schoolmates . . . Louis boarded at our house."

The river town of Smithland was one of the earliest settlements in Marion County, established sometime prior to 1839. James D. Todd bought "the tract upon which Smithland is situated" from George Smith in 1849. But because of insecure land titles at "Smith's Landing", the town was relocated at Jefferson where Allen Urquhart furnished the site. In the course of time Smithland became the landing for Colonel Todd's plantation. Big Cypress and Black Cypress were interchangeably referred to as Ferry Lake. This body of water represented practically the only connection the people had with civilization. Smithland was not only the town where merchandise was shipped by water, but in 1844 it was at the point where a road crossed Big Cypress (by ferry boat) going from Marshall to Clarksville. James D. Todd owned the Ferry, Ferry Boat, steamboat landing, warehouse, etc., and he and his wife Susan and their children lived there. Benny Johnson, a colored man who grew up on the Todd farm and is now 81 years old, remembers that Mr. Todd and his wife, "Miss Susan", are buried in this old family burying ground, but there are no inscribed stones to mark their graves. Daffodils and crepe myrtle trees are left to mark the spot, but the big house that stood nearby, as well as the other buildings that made up Smithland of that day, have been gone for many, many years.

BELVIEW CHURCH CEMETERY

Belview Church Cemetery (given this name in this record because it is located just beyond the colored Belview Church) is about 2 miles northeast of the present community of Smithland (not to be confused with the early Smithland referred to above) which is 15 miles east of Jefferson on State Highway 49. Although at one time it was undoubtedly a large cemetery, all of the stones have disappeared and there is no information about the families who might be buried there. It is known to be a white cemetery, but even the name has been forgotten.

PERKINS CEMETERY

Perkins Cemetery (also known as Hartzo Cemetery by people in the vicinity) is in the eastern part of the county half a mile east of the colored Bethlehem Church. It is reached by turning left off State Highway 49 at the colored settlement about 18 miles east of Jefferson and following the dirt road north more than a mile to the church. The cemetery is half a mile through the woods from the church. It is said to be the oldest and largest cemetery in that part of the county, although there are no markers left to tell the story. Some of the early settlers buried there were members of the following pioneer families: Alfred, Peavy, Hartzo, Perkins, Butterfield, Mims and Urquhart.

DAVIS CEMETERY

Davis Cemetery is just to the right of the Mims Chapel road, Farm Road 729, about 12 miles northwest of Jefferson. This road intersects State Highway 49 four miles west of Jefferson. It was the family burying ground of the Davis family who came to this area from Tennessee about 1850. Edwin Ferrell, the brother of the Ferrell who operated a ferry and later built a bridge near the dam and reservoir named for him, had married a Davis, and her family followed her to Texas. There are no markers left in this deserted old cemetery.

NOTE:

A map of Oakwood Cemetery, the first since the one of 1872, mentioned on page 10, was prepared by the DAR to conform to the tombstones listed in this book. Although this new map used the old one as a nucleus and followed it as far as was possible, no effort was made to give the ownership of the lots. Its only purpose is to show the location of the tombstones listed. Block and lot numbers on the old map were used, but the sections added to the cemetery after 1872 had to be mapped, and they were given block and lot numbers without reference to any records or deeds. The original blocks were lettered A, B, C., etc., and the 1903 addition was also given these same letters. Since the "New Section" or "Highway Addition", added in 1929, also used these same letters (and a new map was prepared of this section at that time), the blocks of the 1903 addition were changed to L, M and N with the original letter shown in parentheses below it.

Only a handful of deeds to cemetery lots have ever been put of record, and it would be virtually impossible to prepare an ownership map. Even as early as March 24, 1873, the Minutes of the City contain the following: "Owing to the neglect heretofore existing of recording lots sold in the city cemetery, it appeared that Messrs. Gribble and Dr. DeJenett had purchased the same lot. It was therefore moved and agreed that Dr. DeJenett be given another lot and that $25.00 be allowed him by the city to defray expense of removing corpse."

McLEMORE CEMETERY

McLemore Cemetery is in the extreme northeast corner of Marion County near the Louisiana line and is reached by turning west on the blacktop road at the cemetery in Vivian, Louisiana. It is about 3 miles from Vivian and about 3 miles north of the Monterey Cemetery. A chain link fence encloses an area about 30 feet square. Only one marker is left, although it is evident there are other graves inside the enclosure. This was the family burying ground of Dr. J. G. McLemore, and he and his wife are buried there.

James Gabriel McLEMORE, son of J. G. and M. A. McLemore
