To whom it may concern:

I have had the pleasure of working with Legacy Tactics now for two years and multiple training events. I have exponentially increased my ability to respond safely and effectively to crises requiring tactical intervention. Legacy can take what was once convoluted ideologies and break them down into unarguable truths so that operators are entirely aware of their angles and exposure. Once they have taught operators to be aware, they go to work and train the team to think artistically to solve these problems as safely as possible.

It is fantastic training. In 24 years of federal service, I have never met another company at this level. Their background, knowledge, and skills are clearly defined, but even more so is their ability to effectively and quickly teach it. Legacy breaks down complicated material into common sense and easily repeatable policies and tactics. If you can bring in outside training for your agency or team, you will not find a better or more committed company than Legacy Tactics.

Very Respectfully,

Jerry Dance
Federal Officer
