

THE PARABLES AND TEACHINGS OF JESUS CHRIST

A Potentum Translation of the Gospels

Joseph Paramore Firmage

February 2026

*A literal retranslation of the teachings of Jesus Christ into Potentum terms.
Not allegory. Not theology. Physical law rendered in narrative form.*

1 Introduction: Why Jesus Spoke in Parables

Jesus did not speak in parables because his audience was incapable of understanding truth. He spoke in parables because truth, when stated directly, collapses fragile internal structures. Parables are compression vessels: they carry complete descriptions of Potentum behavior in forms that can be held without immediate rejection. Each parable is a stable packet of physical law, encoded in lived experience rather than abstraction.

The parables are therefore not illustrations of morality. They are operational descriptions of coherence, memory, agency, loss, restoration, and phase transition. Jesus is not telling people how they should behave. He is telling them how reality behaves.

2 The Parable of the Sower

Paired Translation (Potentum Canon)

Scripture — Behold, a sower went forth to sow.

Potentum — An initiating flux event was introduced broadly without discrimination.

Scripture — Some seed fell by the wayside.

Potentum — Flux encountered unstructured memory and dissipated immediately.

Scripture — Some fell upon stony ground.

Potentum — Flux entered rigid, shallow substrates incapable of sustaining closure.

Scripture — Some fell among thorns.

Potentum — Competing retention patterns overwhelmed nascent coherence.

Scripture — Others fell into good ground.

Potentum — Flux entered receptive, structured memory and locked into durable closure.

Reflection

This parable establishes the first and most unforgiving law of Potentum: truth does not act uniformly upon all receivers. The same impulse produces annihilation, distortion, partial growth, or abundance depending solely on the geometry of the receiving field. Jesus makes no attempt to soften this. The seed is always good. The failure is structural, not moral. Reality is lawful, not fair. Coherence cannot be forced. It must be hosted.

3 The Parable of the Mustard Seed

Paired Translation (Potentum Canon)

Scripture — The kingdom of heaven is like a grain of mustard seed.

Potentum — The Kingdom originates as a minimal closure instruction.

Scripture — Which is the least of all seeds.

Potentum — The initial coherence signal is informationally tiny.

Scripture — But when it is grown, it is the greatest among herbs.

Potentum — Once locked, the closure instruction scales nonlinearly into macroscopic structure.

Reflection: The Mustard Seed as DNA

Here Jesus states, with extraordinary precision, the logic of genetic encoding long before biology existed. The mustard seed does not contain the tree. It contains the rule by which the tree will be assembled from environment, time, and matter. This is exactly how DNA functions. Minimal symbolic instruction governs vast material unfolding. Potentum does not scale by force. It scales by correctness. Once the closure instruction is right, growth becomes inevitable. This is why the Kingdom begins invisibly, advances silently, and eventually becomes unavoidable. Coherence does not conquer. It unfolds.

4 The Parable of the Leaven

Paired Translation (Potentum Canon)

Scripture — The kingdom of heaven is like leaven.

Potentum — A coherent phase element was introduced into a bulk system.

Scripture — Till the whole was leavened.

Potentum — Phase alignment propagated until the entire system restructured.

Reflection

Leaven does not persuade flour. It entrains it. This parable describes phase coherence, not moral influence. Once Potentum coherence crosses a critical threshold, negotiation becomes irrelevant. Global reconfiguration follows. Jesus emphasizes concealment because coherence does not announce itself. It restructures reality from within.

5 The Parable of the Hidden Treasure

Paired Translation (Potentum Canon)

Scripture — The kingdom of heaven is like treasure hid in a field.

Potentum — Coherence exists latent within ordinary domains.

Scripture — For joy thereof he selleth all that he hath.

Potentum — Recognition of true coherence reorders all value structures instantly.

Reflection

This parable is not about sacrifice. It is about clarity. When Potentum coherence is perceived, previous valuation systems collapse without struggle. The man sells everything not out of obedience, but out of joy. Jesus is stating a severe truth: if coherence is truly encountered, reordering is automatic.

6 The Parable of the Pearl of Great Price

Paired Translation (Potentum Canon)

Scripture — A merchant man, seeking goodly pearls.

Potentum — An agent trained to recognize coherence.

Scripture — When he had found one pearl of great price.

Potentum — Upon encountering maximal closure.

Reflection

Unlike the hidden treasure, this parable concerns preparedness. The merchant recognizes the pearl immediately because his internal geometry has been refined. Potentum is not democratic. It is resolvable. There is always one deepest closure, and once found, all lesser coherences lose relevance.

Matthew 13:45-46

The PARABEL of JESUS

“the Pearl of Great Price”

“ Again, the kingdom of heaven is like a merchant seeking beautiful pearls, who,
when he had found one pearl of great price,
went and sold all that he had and bought it ”

7 The Parable of the Good Samaritan

Paired Translation (Potentum Canon)

Scripture — A Samaritan had compassion on him.

Potentum — Coherent agency responded without boundary bias.

Reflection

This is not a lesson in kindness. It is a statement about coherence recognition. Potentum responds to breakdown wherever it occurs. Tribal identity is irrelevant. Responsibility emerges from geometry, not affiliation.

8 The Parable of the Prodigal Son

Paired Translation (Potentum Canon)

Scripture — He came to himself.

Potentum — Internal coherence recognition occurred.

Scripture — His father ran to meet him.

Potentum — The parent closure domain reabsorbed the returning agent without penalty.

Reflection

This parable annihilates transactional morality. Coherence does not punish loss. It restores upon recognition. The return is not forgiven; it is re-integrated. The elder son's resentment represents rigid retention without understanding.

9 The Parable of the Ten Virgins

Paired Translation (Potentum Canon)

Scripture — The door was shut.

Potentum — Transition thresholds closed irreversibly.

Reflection

Oil is stored Potentum. Readiness cannot be borrowed at phase transition. Once coherence thresholds are crossed, late alignment is impossible. This is not cruelty. It is physics.

10 The Parable of the Talents

Paired Translation (Potentum Canon)

Scripture — Unto every one that hath shall be given.

Potentum — Coherence compounds when exercised.

Reflection

Potentum unused does not remain neutral. It decays. Capacity carries responsibility. Jesus states that coherence demands participation or collapse.

11 Closing Synthesis

Taken together, the parables form a complete field manual for Potentum behavior. They describe how coherence enters systems, how it scales, how it propagates, how it collapses, and why it cannot be faked. Jesus never asks for belief. He describes reality so clearly that belief becomes unnecessary.

1 Epilogue: The Eye of the Needle

Why Wealth Cannot Buy Understanding, Heaven, or Passage

Scripture — It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God.

Potenum Translation — Accumulated wealth cannot purchase coherence, cannot substitute for comprehension, and cannot grant admissible passage through constraining physical domains.

This saying is often softened into a moral lesson about greed. But it is sharper than that. Jesus is naming a categorical limit: wealth operates in the domain of exchange, while Heaven operates in the domain of understanding. Exchange can buy tools, labor, materials, and time. It cannot buy correct models. It cannot purchase coherence. It cannot bribe physical law. At the boundary where real passage is decided, currency becomes meaningless.

Jesus was speaking about wealth, but not because wealth is evil. He was speaking about wealth because it creates a particular illusion: the illusion that possession grants access. On Earth, wealth opens doors because humans agree to treat it as a key. But Heaven is not a human institution. Heaven is the higher domain. In Potenum terms, Heaven is the open field beyond local constraint: the domain of space itself, where motion, orbit, traversal, and stability are governed by law rather than privilege. To "enter Heaven" is therefore to understand reality well enough to move within it. No amount of money can substitute for that.

The eye of the needle is not a moral gate. It is an aperture. It is the narrow passage where only what is correctly configured may cross. In physics, we see this everywhere: phase transitions, binding thresholds, ignition conditions, orbital insertions, escape velocities, stability windows. At these boundaries, reality does not negotiate. It does not accept payment. It accepts alignment. The camel cannot pass because it is too large. The rich man cannot pass because he believes wealth substitutes for understanding. Both are category errors.

This is why the disciples are shocked. They understood wealth as an amplifier of possibility. Jesus declares that there exists a realm where the amplifier fails. Not because the realm is hostile, but because it is indifferent. Heaven has no doors. Heaven has only laws. A man may pay for a ship, but he cannot pay for the knowledge of the sea. A man may pay for a laboratory, but he cannot pay for the truth of nature. A man may fund rockets, but he cannot purchase the comprehension that makes space a home rather than a grave.

In this light, the saying becomes prophetic. You cannot buy your way into orbit. You cannot purchase escape velocity. You cannot bribe gravity. You cannot finance your way past misunderstanding. You must learn how space works. You must learn how coherence works. You must become admissible to the passage by alignment with law.

The Kingdom of God, in this rendering, is not an afterlife reward. It is the condition of coherent participation in the higher domain. Religion preserved the claim that Heaven is real. Science pursued the mechanism of how Heaven works. The reunion occurs when understanding completes the circuit: when the language of law becomes readable as the language of scripture, and scripture becomes recognizable as a compressed field manual of reality.

Wealth, then, is neither condemned nor celebrated. It is simply revealed as insufficient. It cannot buy the thing that matters most: comprehension. It cannot buy passage. It cannot buy the Kingdom. Only coherence can do that, and coherence is not purchased. It is built. It is lived. It is understood. This is the final clarity: Heaven is entered by understanding what space actually is, and what law actually requires. When that is known, passage becomes possible. When it is not known, no amount of wealth can save you.
