Title : Give it a thought !

This is a story that always reminds me to be self inspired and I believe it can provide confidence for all who are engulfed by hesitation and fear. It is a very ordinary story that describes the journey of me, although a few hitches, here and there, can be seen.

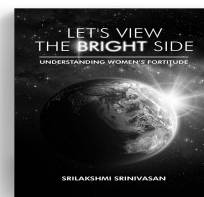

The story narrates about the trek I took to rejuvenate myself around my 20s. I had to go through a few saddened moments like the passing away of my mother that affected me so much psychologically.

In order to overcome the darkness inside me, I started seeing the bright side of life which taught me the practicalities of livelihood.

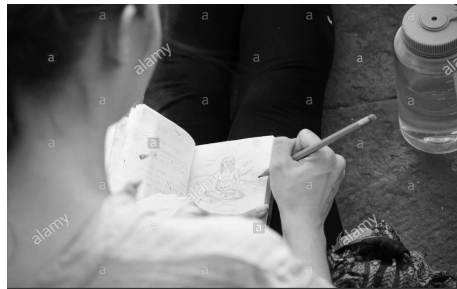

After gaining clarity, I decided to carry upon my wedded life responsibilities, which invoked an emblazoned woman from the inside of me. The commitments made me realise the true meaning of being empowered and it led me towards finding the strengths camouflaged inside me.

I started looking at life from a 180 degree vista. It made me lose my hesitation and open up towards the entirety. When I started to believe in perceptions, the colours of life filled graciously upon the grey areas and this was the moment I saw 'confidence', showering just like 'rains pervading deserts' to form 'oases'. It deviated my aspiration that led me to drive towards my passion.

Thereby I started out writing which in turn let my views spread towards fellow beings and everyone. Today, I am an author of 3 books and several articles, quotes and poetry. I am also a self established, 'cost-less' volunteering teacher, counsellor and an embracing mentor within my confined boundary that has earned a lot of respect to and from my peers around.

This is Srilakshmi. Give it a thought over my story to disperse through the barricades and explode the hidden colours within, to spread your sky with a meaningful rainbow! It's time for everyone like me, to get galvanized to effectuate self goals confronting all situations, just like mother earth accomplishing her routines amidst all irks.
