

Welcome to CCRS!

We're a proud women-owned business, led by the dynamic duo of Nicole Holguin and Preeti Dhaania. With deep expertise in clinical research and site management, CCRS team drive innovation and growth for clinical sites. Our mission is simple: to use our experience to ensure success and provide exceptional support for clinical sites.

Nicole Holguin

Nicole Holguin, BSHA
Director of Operations

Nicole's clinical research journey began in 2011, and her rise has been nothing short of remarkable. She started as a research assistant, gaining extensive experience in women's health, cardiology, dermatology, and nephrology. After many years with the leading SMO, she honed her skills in site management and growth, becoming known for mentoring Principal Investigators and introducing new talent to the field.

Nicole's passion for research runs in the family - her grandmother broke new ground in the 1980s by founding her own IRB, establishing a legacy of leadership and innovation. Nicole carries this legacy forward at CCRS, blending her expertise, enthusiasm, and visionary leadership to drive the company's success.

Preeti Dhaania

Preeti Dhaania, MBBS
Director of Site Development

With a degree in Medicine and a background in business consultation for a major retailer, Preeti combines medical knowledge with strategic insight. Her clinical training and business expertise enable her to optimize site operations for better efficiency and profitability. Her expertise spans diverse therapeutic areas, including pulmonology, GI, endocrinology, infectious diseases, and nephrology.

Preeti's passion for research is deeply personal. Having lost her mother to NASH, she understands firsthand the critical role that clinical trials can play in advancing treatment options. This profound experience fuels her commitment to improving sites and ensuring as many patients have access to clinical trials.
