How EMFs Affect Levels of Consciousness

There is big debate about EMFs and their effect on health but what we are interested to discover is how they affect levels of consciousness (how much soul we hold in the body).

What are EMFs

Firstly, let's clarify what EMFs are:

Electro Magnetic Frequency which are emitted by many modern day devices from mobile phones and masts, WIFI, televisions, computers and the invisible but ever increasing collection of satellites and other monitoring devices. The wavelength frequency that most of these devices emit are very discordant to the natural human resonant frequencies which is why so many people suffer ill effects as a result. These kind of side effects can include headaches, disorientation, agitation and many others but there are plenty of good articles about this so we will focus on the effects of EMFs on consciousness.

How Do EMFs Affect Consciousness

Our tests have shown that EMFs block the connection we hold with source energy and inhibit the flow of consciousness both within and without the body. How this translates into real life experience is that EMFs restrict our intuitive abilities, our abilities to channel information from other dimensions and our ability to connect with other souls (eg during distance healing sessions). EMFs test also as affecting the chakra points by distorting the energy and flow at these nodes. EMFs also test as distorting the Merkabah (the expanded energy system around our body).

How to Neutralise the Effects of EMFs

As expanded beings of infinite potential, we each of us hold the ability to overcome the physical and energetic effects of EMFs using the innate power we hold within us.

However, that can be easier said than done and so it is helpful to look at other methods we can use until we learn to direct consciousness and to create a reality whereby we are immune from all EMFs.

Creating a Physical Barrier Against EMFs

Apart from avoidance (going to live in an ancient forest and foregoing any electrical devices and mobile phones!), some people have completely redecorated their houses with EMF shielding curtains, materials and paint so that they have EMF deflecting roofs, walls and windows. This is extraordinarily expensive and doesn't really help once you leave the sanctuary of your home. Energetically it is also a conflictual way of solving the problem, in that by shielding yourself from the electromagnetic waves you are working against, rather than with the energies. Creating barriers to flow, whatever that flow is, is still creating blockages. We prefer to live within the energies and to transmute them either by intention or using a physical device.

Orgonite to Transmute EMFs

Orgone energy was discovered by Willhelm Reich in the 1930s who showed that it had a similar energy to sun rays. His experiments showed that cancer cells died when placed next to orgonite. developed a material made of crystals and metallic pieces, all set into resin and moulded into a shape of choice. Other people choose to wear orgonite pendants or use orgonite pyramids around the house which help transmute the harmful EMF frequencies into more neutral or even beneficial frequencies (those in alignment with our natural human resonances). These go some way to help and are a great way of giving some form of protection both in and out of the house. Our tests have shown that orgonite pendants and pyramids can help transmute the energies by around 3 points (using a scale of 0-10 where 10 is the energy in an ancient forest). We have placed many orgonite blocks around the house particularly on top of our electrical meter, WIFI box, computers. We also have stuck the little orgonite patches onto the back of our mobile phones. However, since typical energies in a home with WIFI and TV are around 1 or 2, this means that you are still only half way to achieving the natural resonance of ancient land.

Plugin Energy Devices

We have spent over 2 decades using and researching various protective devices and have found that by far the most effective (according to our tests) are those that you plugin to your household (or office) electricity supply. We tried a few; some of which were more effective than others. Since we prefer to focus on what works, rather than writing dismissive articles about specific products that are not so effective, we will describe the plugin device that performed the best and which we use.

BluShield Plugin Device to Transmute EMFs

The BluShield device is a smallish box that you plug into a centrally located socket in your house or office. From the moment we plugged it in we were aware of the shift and clearing in energy (and this despite the fact we already had two other plug in devices in the house and plenty of orgonite). Once plugged in, the device is left to work and occasionally flashes to let you know it's still functional. This is higher priced than the orgonite pyramids but in our opinion well worth the investment. We tested the difference in energy before and after installation and found that the energy before was testing around 4 (with all of the devices we have in the house) and the energy after was testing at 10 right next to the device but remained high within a good distance of the device. Just to compare that an energy of 10 is equivalent to the wonderful energy you'll experience in an ancient forest.

How Far is the Blushield's Effective Reach?

Out of interest we wanted to understand what the protective radius of the device was; ie how powerful its effects were over a wider range. The makers state that it has a radial range of 40m but we know that the effectiveness diminishes over distance and wanted to find out by how much. We were especially curious how the power diminished going through walls (both vertical room walls and horizontal floor walls). We have plotted the results on a chart (see below).

Experience Using BluShield

Our experience in using the BluShield device is that the vibration of the rooms it reaches are significantly raised. In layman's terms, it feels similar to the feeling you get when you walk outside in a forest or meadow or in the countryside (away from the EMF smog that originates in every town). The rooms feel calmer, easier to live in, more relaxing to be present in. Until you negate the EMFs in your house, it is really difficult to imagine how it would be to live without them as we adapt to whatever environment we are presented with. So until we installed the BluShield device in our office we had no idea how antagonistic the vibrations were. However, now it is operational we can definitely feel the positive difference it makes and really appreciate the deepened sense of calm we now enjoy.

BluShield Performance Tests by Armichi Wellness, March 2021

Tests were based on Resonance Tests, on a scale from 0 - 10 where 0 = no restorative energy and 10 = maximum restorative energy. The maximum restorative energy is on a par with that found in an ancient forest.

Measured House Energy

These tests measured the house energy levels before and after a BluShield was installed. You can see that the energy levels before were extremely low, but this is typical for a house that has WIFI. Afterwards, the energy levels were restored extremely well, and close to the device were almost equivalent to the energy levels of an ancient forest.

- Without BluShield = 1.2 - 2.4
- With BluShield = 7.2 - 9.9

We were curious and wanted to check the energy levels outside the house (about 10m away from the source of WIFI) which is located in a typical residential street. These were better than the values measured inside the house without BluShield installed, but still low. The energy levels outside the house didn't change much with the installation of BluShield since it was too far away to have any significant effect.

- Outside house without BluShield = 4.3
- Outside house with BluShield = 3.8

How BluShield's Restorative Energy is Weakened by House Walls

The chart below shows how much the restorative effects of BluShield reduce over distance. We thought it would also be useful to measure how much the effects reduce further when encountering house walls and floors.

- Through One Floor = Reduces by 1.0
- Through Interior Wall = Reduces 0.3 - 0.7
- Through Exterior Wall = Reduces 1.2 - 1.7

So if you are installing BluShield in a particular room in your home, you would need to subtract the above values off the chart values below in order to know how much restorative energy the BluShield has in the other rooms and higher/lower floors in your house.

How BluShield's Restorative Energy Diminishes by Distance

The chart below shows how incredibly effective the device is for a radius of about 8-9m. Beyond this, the ability to transmute EMFs weakens significantly. This device was the most effective performing device of all those we tested.
