Technical standards (Please Initial)

A student should possess the following abilities, with or without reasonable accommodation, for completion of the professional certification program in massage therapy:

___ Ability to apply massage and adjunctive techniques over the full range of a client's body, including positioning clients, palpating, feeling with hands and fingers, pushing, pulling, kneading, grasping, twisting wrists, and lifting to ten pounds, for periods of up to 90 minutes without interruption.

___ Ability to determine depth and intensity of manual pressure and force, as applied in the performance of common massage and adjunctive procedures and techniques.

___ Ability to see and hear, with or without reasonable accommodation, enough that the student can receive and record client histories, document treatment plans, provide instructions to clients and provide routine client safety services.

___ Ability to perform in all laboratory and clinical settings without posing a threat to herself/himself, to the safety and well-being of fellow students or clients.

___ Ability and willingness to receive massage and adjunctive treatment. Much of the technical instruction in the programs requires reciprocal application of the techniques of massage therapy, including trigger point therapy and cross fiber friction. In reciprocal laboratory experiences, receiving techniques is necessary to learn proper procedures and to receive and provide learning feedback. Reciprocal application of technique is also useful for developing sensitivity to client needs. The school may temporarily excuse a student from receiving massage therapy if there is a specific medical contraindication, as determined in writing by a licensed healthcare professional.

I certify that the above information in my admissions application is correct and complete to the best of my knowledge. I understand that providing false information can result in dismissal from the program or denial of admission.
