About Us

Leah's Legacy was founded by Michael and Robin Straley in loving memory of their beautiful daughter Leah, who tragically passed away from fentanyl poisoning on Valentine's Day of 2018. Determined to turn their grief into purpose, they created Leah's Legacy to honor Leah's compassion and commitment to helping others. Today, we continue that mission by offering peer recovery support services—providing hope, guidance, and understanding to individuals on their pathway to recovery. Through connection and care, we walk alongside those seeking healing, one step at a time.

Leah's Legacy purple bags, filled with essentials and distributed to women to support them on their recovery journey.

What are Individual Recovery Support Services?

Individual recovery support services connect people who are seeking recovery from substance use disorder with a trained Certified Recovery Specialist (CRS)—an individual who has lived experience with substance use disorder and has found long-term recovery. They offer one-on-one support, encouragement, and guidance, helping others set goals, stay motivated, and access resources throughout their recovery journey.

Who Could Benefit from Individual Recovery Support Services?

Anyone who has struggled or continues to struggle with substance use disorder could benefit from these services; regardless of time in recovery, stage of recovery or recovery pathway.
