

Death Can Wait

How I Beat Stage IV Cancer Naturally

ABOUT WILLIAM HUDSON

“An ordinary guy with an extraordinary story.”

William Hudson, a stage IV cancer survivor, is a retired IT professional in higher education. He graduated magna cum laude from Pepperdine University in Malibu, California, earning a Bachelor of Science degree in Business Administration. William spent most of his career in higher education information technology at Pepperdine University and the University of Redlands. He spent a few years in the corporate realm as a higher education technology consultant and project manager at a 'big four' accounting firm and higher education software provider in San Francisco.

Not ready to give up on himself, William dedicated himself to discovering natural things he could do to beat cancer, even after his doctors told him to get his affairs in order. William is now devoted to sharing his story and research with anyone who will listen.

STORY IDEAS

- Should people with cancer consider natural/holistic treatments? Five things you can do to beat cancer naturally.
- Are my root canals making me sick? Why it's important to remove toxic elements from previous dental work, including root canals.
- Are municipalities poisoning our water supply? Why it's important to filter fluoride and chlorine from your shower and drinking water.
- Cancer diagnosis? Now what? Five things you can do to beat cancer naturally.
- Can I beat cancer by changing my diet? One recipe rich in Omega 3s that can save your life.
- Digestive enzymes and probiotics. Are they really necessary?
- Are there affordable natural/holistic cancer treatment centers I can go to? The one treatment center William went to that may have saved his life.

