Welcome to the 2020 edition of 5:00 am, catalog has to ship today, and what the hell am I going to say for a message this year?

I'm sure 2019 is a year no one in the Great Lake of Nebraska wants to relive. Brutal spring blizzards, unprecedented flooding, grass that didn't ever harden up, haying with pontoons, etc. etc. etc. NOT the set of factors that lead up to banner years by any means. But as I sit here reflecting about the what if's and what could have been's of 2019, I keep coming back to the ultimate question of WHAT DID YOU LEARN? For me, the answer is pretty simple. MOMS MATTER! Every year Mother Nature sets an obstacle course. Last year she set up the gauntlet.

Every cow calving between the end of February and the end of March had to deal with more weather than any of them had seen in a lifetime. And then it finally warmed up and every cow had to deal with more flies, footrot and pinkeye than they've ever seen...and they were asked to do it on the worst grass ever from a nutritional standpoint.

So how do I come to the point of "Moms Matter"?? For starters. Stupid cows took themselves out of contention at the starting line last year. Lack of vigor, ability to get one up off the ground and determination to get that first belly full of milk - sorted itself quickly. The next major sort in extreme conditions comes through milk quality. The have's and have not's are identified easily in 3 day blizzards. If they didn't take themselves out of contention early, they definitely sort themselves over the course of the summer. Then we throw in heat, flies, footrot and ask her to breed early all while taking care of that little truck tugging on her flank. No small order in a good year...a very TALL ORDER during a summer like 2019.

Now, to expand the thought a few steps further, the whole thought process has absolutely nothing to do with EPDs or frame size. Your environment dictates what wins, no different than mine. Your management dictates that as well. And ultimately that is directly tied to the cows shape and the production parameters that you or I place upon her. This year, Mother Nature sorted all of our genetics harshly. But if we all paid attention, it gave a very clear picture of what every producer's target should be because it's quite obvious what worked and what didn't. Frail, fine boned, narrow, low birthweight, and tight ribbed cattle aren't the traits that keep any rancher in business for the long haul. Commercial customer success is the Number 1 priority here.

It's a smaller offering this year. They weaned off lighter than normal and they didn't get to a feed bunk until a bit later than normal. But as always, they are allowed to differentiate themselves on a low energy/ high roughage TMR ration to ensure soundness and longevity.

Everything will be at Bassett Livestock Saturday before the sale and everyone is invited to inspect the offering prior to the sale.

Look forward to your appraisal on March 2nd at Bassett Livestock.

• From my earliest ventures north, I fell in love with a bull called Flying K Max 159Y. Since semen wasn't available on daddy, the only option was to buy a son, so Hank the Tank became target #3 in 2015. The combination of the shape, structure, muscle, feet and udders I knew were stacked in his sire crossed with a dam who topped the Chickadee dispersal made this little meatwagon irresistible to me. If you like frame 4.5 to 5.2 cattle that are wide, deep and packed with muscle and maternal, check his sons out. Maximum 165B continues to do what he does. He moderates frame, adds tremendous muscle, udder quality and a flawless structure.

• Amped was a sleeper in the 2016 SSS sale. One of the youngest bulls in the offering that year, he didn't draw the attention of as many people as his progeny will. The Ambush daughters are tremendous young cows at SSS, and his donor dam 306W is one of the best cows in the history of that famed program. His first daughters are going to make deep, stout, broody cows.

Commercial Red Angus Heifers

Once again, we will lead off the bull sale with the primary focus of this program: The customers' commercial replacement females. I've always held the belief (or more likely my old man beat it into my head) that if the replacement heifers were right, the rest of the program was taking care of itself. My customer base is just as committed to quality as I am and I'm honored to put the fruits of their labor and dollars on display for your evaluation. The entire offering is 100% home raised from programs that have earned their reputation for having outstanding commercial cattle.

As always, each heifer will be palpated for breeding soundness, bangs vaccinated and sized and sorted for uniformity.

Heifers will be sold 5 or more to the cut all day long to accommodate buyers both large and small.

As a side note, for anyone needing to buy some time until you're ready at home, give myself or Terry a call and we can help assist with arrangements that will work for you..feeding, synchronizing, breeding...we're happy to accommodate your needs.

And by all means, contact me next fall if you need any help in re-marketing bred females. There is always someone looking for a set of quality bred heifers. If you have any questions about the heifers offered March 2nd, please feel free to call myself or:

Terry Cone 308.750.1681
Shane Kaczor 402.376.7011

The offering this year includes:

90 head of high performance heifers from Jim & Scott Boettcher, Atkinson, NE, 402.925.2238 or 402.925.2503.

There will be a solid potload out of the middle and a short load of larger framed, higher performing heifers in this consignment.

60+ head of strictly hay fed replacement heifers from Gary and Rose Macleod, Valentine, NE, 402.376.1899.

These are full sisters to last year's high selling heifer consignment. They will be extra green and highly recommended for later breeding.

20 head of straight reds from Glen May, Bassett, NE, 402.684.3744.

This lot will be between 10 and 40 head. It was a brutal summer for pastures along the Elkhorn. This will be another great offering of real world, unpampered genetics. These heifers will flat grow for their new owner and make a solid set of replacement females.

30 head of reputation reds and

10 red baldies from Neil and Mary Ammon, Newport, NE, 402.244.5313.

Ammons needs no introduction to this, nor do his heifers. He brings great ones every year.

Commercial heifer updates will be posted on arrowsmithredangus.com and Arrowsmith Red Angus Facebook page.

- Moderate, shapely, typey heifer bull. His dam was my second pick and second high seller in Sandbur Ridge's female sale in 2017. Take his actual birth weight with a grain of salt. The weather and extra hay for bedding in the blizzards added more than a couple pounds to where this guy will live for birthweights.
