The Brewster Ford. A 1934 Brewster Towne car and a 1935 roadster. Brewster was a luxury coach builder founded in Connecticut in 1810 as a high end luxury carriage builder. They later produced luxury automobiles including Rolls Royce. In the 30's depression, they tried making affordable luxury coaches using Ford chassis. With a price of approximately $3,500, the Brewsters were more affordable than any Rolls-Royce but still too expensive for most people and the company ended at public auction in 1937.

This 1926 Wolseley-Vickers car was equipped with both tracks and regular wheels so the vehicle could be driven around like a traditional car or it could lower its tracks to tackle rougher terrain like a tank.

A "Knock Down Kit" B-24H. When Ford began building B-24s at Willow Run it was only doing sub-assemblies and parts. This led to complete airplanes in kit form which were shipped to Tulsa Oklahoma by rail for assembly. The production of these kits continued even after Willow Run started building finished airplanes.

Penetrating Oils Compared

Machinist's Workshop magazine actually tested penetrates for break out torque on rusted nuts. Significant results! They arranged a subjective test of all the popular penetrates with the control being the torque required to remove the nut from a "scientifically rusted" environment.

Penetrating oil	Average load
None	516 pounds
WD-40	238 pounds
PB Blaster	214 pounds
Liquid Wrench	127 pounds
Kano Kroil	106 pounds
ATF-Acetone mix...	53 pounds

The ATF-Acetone mix was a "home brew" mix of 50 - 50 automatic transmission fluid and acetone.

The family of Roberta Dunkel wants to thank the MMOCC collectively and individually for all the thoughts, cards, prayers, visits, meals and donations you afforded us during Roberta's 6 month battle with myeloma cancer which she ultimately lost. It gives our little family comfort knowing you and the organization are there for us. We appreciate everything you have done. Thank you for everything, Stuart Dunkel
