

Kate Hoepke

Kate Hoepke is the Executive Director of San Francisco Village (SFV), a nonprofit membership organization that connects older adults to the community, programming and expertise they need to continue living lives of purpose and meaning. She has been a community-builder for 30 years, in the field of aging since 2001 and with SFV since 2012. In addition to her role at SFV, she is a leader in the national Village Movement and Board Chair of Village Movement California, advancing the Village Movement statewide. She is the founder of 40 Mothers Clubs in the San Francisco Bay Area, which have served more than a million families since the early 1990's. Kate has a BA in sociology and an MBA from San Francisco State University, and she is a 2019/2020 Encore Public Voices fellow.
