

Jon Pangia, DO, MBA, MSAI, FACEP
Bio

Dr. Pangia has acquired over 30 years of experience in healthcare by starting at the youngest possible age as a firefighter/EMT. From there, his journey took him through nursing tech in the operating room, ER tech, public health volunteer in Africa, medical office manager in New York City, peer therapist for college students, and finally earned the privilege to become a physician followed by training to specialize in emergency medicine.

Just when he thought he had accomplished his goals, he was asked to do even more. They asked him to lead his team of clinicians as the emergency medical director, setting off a whole new mission: help those who help others. Over the past 15 years, he has led multiple physician groups across various specialties with adherence to one true cause: take great care of the people who take great care of the sick and injured. In a changing world and with repetitive failures of technology to assist in this endeavor, he became an AI engineer to help create the right tools that help those who help others.
