Father Kareem Smith

Father Kareem R. Smith is a Roman Catholic priest of the Archdiocese of New York, known for his dynamic preaching and leadership. Ordained in 2018 by Cardinal Timothy Dolan at St. Patrick's Cathedral, he studied at St. Joseph's Seminary after earning his undergraduate degree from St. John's University.

He currently serves as Pastor of Blessed Sacrament Parish in New Rochelle, following his previous role at St. Michael the Archangel Church in the Bronx.

Beyond parish duties, Fr. Kareem is Senior Chaplain for the Pierre Toussaint Scholarship Program and Chaplain for Black Catholics in the Archdiocese.

A strong advocate for Black Catholic leadership, he is President of the National Black Catholic Clergy Caucus (NBCCC), a board member of the National Black Catholic Congress (NBCC), and serves on the board of Iona Preparatory School. He is a sought-after speaker on racial justice, youth engagement, and liturgical diversity.
