Director's Message

I can say, without a doubt, that 2020 did not go according to plan! However, I am proud to report that even through a global pandemic, Children's Aid Society of Mercer County survived and thrived. We have learned, as an agency, how resilient, resourceful and flexible we can be while still providing quality services to our consumers. Telehealth and various virtual platforms became the norm and staff made several smooth transitions from working in the office to working from home. Fundraisers were cancelled and some funding sources were allocating funds to emergency services only. Although there was concern for the financial wellness of CAS, the agency was fortunate to receive supplemental support through federal Covid-19 funding. Our main concern in 2020 was the overall wellness of our staff and consumers. CAS took all recommended precautions to keep everyone safe and followed the PA Department of Health and the CDC guidelines.

In spite of a pandemic, the Adoption and Permanency Department continued to receive consistent SWAN referrals through numerous counties across the state. Foster care placements increased slightly and the Creating Foundations Mentoring Program increased the number of mentees and mentors by 40%. The Family Based Mental Health Program (Family Focus) continued to serve a consistent full caseload thanks to the approved use of Telehealth. Initially the Jumpstart Daycare was forced to close its doors for a couple of days until it received a waiver from the PA Department of Human Services allowing it to open. The daycare facility remained open with full enrollment for the remainder of the year. Unfortunately, the Family Life Education Program took a major blow when the Mercer County Jail closed its doors to all programming provided by community agencies. The majority of this program's services were provided through the provision of Anger Management, Parenting and Life Skills classes in the jail.

Thanks to a dedicated staff, understanding consumers, and the support of community, CAS survived an unprecedented year. We will take what we have learned about various ways to provide services, flexibility in the workplace and the human experience and forge ahead while always honoring our mission of being "dedicated to support and strengthen children, families and communities by providing multiple, creative and collaborative services." As always, I am proud to be part of an agency that has provide uninterrupted services for over 132 years!
