

Troll cross / trollkor

The troll cross or trollkor resembles the shape of the rune othala, which lends itself to be not just a physically protective symbol but a spiritual/psychic protective talisman as well. A ward against malefic magic, intention, seen or unseen. It doesn't have a very long history, it is definitely a modern idea, born of ancient wisdom for sure, but modern in it's practice nonetheless.

The symbol was first discovered by a Swedish woman named Kari Erlands from Dalarna, Sweden back in the 1990's. She discovered the symbol on a fence post on her grandparents property. Being a blacksmith, she took the symbol and made Jewelry and other adornments. For her, we are eternally grateful.

Some uses and lore state that these talismans keep you safe on your travels from malevolent energy. Instead of iron we use copper.

Copper in itself is a great conduit to enhance flow of energy and psychic abilities. With the pairing of the talisman and our copper medium, the ability to see the path ahead and read the energy of those around you becomes heightened, thus making your landscape easier to navigate. Hand wound, these talismans are 1.5", making it easy to slip in your pocket or bag. Also easily attaches to backpacks and keychains for on the go protection. The adornment of this protective piece is as endless as your imagination. ☸
