An over-the-garage getaway offers refuge to tired travelers.

BY LISA LAVIA SYRD

Almost 100 years ago, the garage was the place where you stored your car. But today, the garage is a place where you can find a lot more than just a car.

When the garage is a place where you can find a lot more than just a car, it's a place where you can find a lot more than just a car.

The house's lower level was built during the 1920s, but the garage was added in the 1950s. The garage was built as a place where you could store your car, but it was also a place where you could find a lot more than just a car.
