

FOREWARD

Since at least the 1970's, I can remember our grandfather, Andrew Burnham Parsons Jr., researching our family lineage, not via the Internet, or Ancestry, or 23 and Me. The good old fashioned way where you visited cemeteries and churches and town halls to review records and the census and spoke to church and town officials too.

He left a handwritten copy as well as multiple typed copies and other notes at his passing. Each copy has some differences from the original and that could be due to typing errors, as well as records or cemetery grave stones he found that weren't clear. As well, there are various first and last name spellings (i.e. Jeffrey/Jeffery, Abigail/Abagail, Samuel/Samuell, Hana/Hanna).

The following is a consolidated version of all that information.

I have modified some sentence structure but kept most of the language originally used and so it can be quite interesting – and some comments about families still living in houses/locations are only correct as of Andrew's passing.

Each generation is identified by a new page and the asterisked/bolded names trace lineage from Jeffrey Parsons, Sr. in 1654 to Andrew Parsons, Jrs' three children Andrew, George, and Susan, all born in the 1900's. All children are listed in birth order – and if there is any additional information for that person, they are listed a second time with that information.

I've reached out to every family for updates (of the public record kind) but if your information is incomplete or inaccurate at this time (Jan 7, 2023) just let me know and I'll correct.

Parsons –

The name Parsons is derived from the Latin Persona, a person who takes care of the souls of his parishioners, thus it is claimed that the founder of this family was a clerical character. The first known was a Walter Parsons who lived in Mulsa, Ireland in 1290.

However, some of the ancient records of the English nation give evidence of early forms of the name and show usage as early as 1273. The names below are excerpts from these records.

Clemens fil, Persone - County Norfolk
"Hundred Rolls" 1273

Isabel Parsones - County Somersetshire
"Kirbys Quest" 1327-1377

William Parson – County Somersetshire
"Kirbys Quest" 1327-1377

Johannes Parsonson – Yorkshire Poll Tax 1379

The surname Parsons is most abundant in Wiltshire, Somersetshire, and Hampshire counties of England.

The first census of America in 1790 showed many Parsons families had settled here, mostly in Massachusetts, Connecticut, and Virginia with an average family of 5.5 persons.

Heraldry is highly regarded for its aesthetic and historical qualities. For the symbols, devices, and colors generally associated with any particular surname tell a story of our ancestors. Burke's "General Armory" lists thirteen different coat or arms for the Parsons family.

Essex County, Massachusetts, America
1st Generation~~~~~

Jeffrey Parsons Sr.,

Born in 1631 in Ashprington near Exeter in Devonshire County, England, Jeffrey settled in Gloucester, Massachusetts in 1654/1655 arriving from Barbados where he had spent several years with an Uncle.

Jeffrey left a brother James in England who died about 1708 leaving several children, one of whom was Elizabeth Morgan living in Ashprington in 1714 known by a letter written by her to her cousin James in America, which is still preserved by the family.

In April of 1655, Jeffrey purchased an acre and a half of land in Fisherman's Cove Field from Giles Barge. He also bought about the same amount with a house from George Ingersol, which was formerly owned by a George Norton, and this is where he made his residence and many of his descendants are still living in this area.

On November 11, 1657 he married Sarah Vinson, daughter of William Vinson (among the grants to William Vinson was an island in the cove in front of his house called Five Pound Island). It is said that while walking on a hot summer day Jeffrey was resting near Vinson's well and Sarah noticed the young man and brought some cool water to relieve him. Being a beautiful young girl, this meeting was the beginning of a friendship that ended in their marriage.

Jeffrey was a selectman for several years and died on August 16 or 19, 1689 in Gloucester, MA leaving an estate of 317 pounds. He is buried in the old cemetery on Centennial Avenue over the railroad tracks. Sarah died on January 12, 1708.

Among their descendants were many distinguished and successful merchants and professional people including the eminent Theophilus Parsons, the Chief Justice of the Massachusetts Supreme Court.

The children of Jeffrey and Sarah:
