

Frank Barry went Pro at age 15 and despite some challenges such as near-death experiences, has made a career in the off-road industry. In March of 2006 he sustained life threatening injuries during an arena cross practice that put his racing temporarily on hold, but he has since made a strong comeback in many disciplines. That downtime led to a diversification in Frank's industry activities including helping his parents Wendy and Laurence found their facility, BUMP. Frank has been offering advanced suspension services since 2010.
