Young Actors Learn to Be Adaptable

► Acting classes teach children to adapt to changing situations. This allows them to be less reactive when new things come up, and be more apt to accept change, both on stage and in life. This flexibility and adaptability are highly sought after skills in the working world, as well. This can give your child an advantage on the stage, plus an advantage when it comes to getting a job when they get a little bit older.

Young Actors Gain Self-Confidence

- ▶ Getting up in front of people and acting is not always easy, especially for children who are shy or uncertain of themselves. But doing it once can help them get past their stage fright. The more they act, the more confidence they will gain in themselves. They will see that acting is something they can conquer. This lesson can be applied to many different areas of life.

Acting Classes for Children Boost Public Speaking Skills

- ▶ Speaking in public does not come naturally to some people. They may be so nervous they stumble over their words or completely forget them. Acting classes can provide young people with the skills needed to overcome this challenge. Learning how to be a strong public speaker is a skill that is needed in a wide number of careers.

Acting Fosters Group Relationships

- ▶ Actors are very rarely on stage alone, and even if they are, it takes a whole video crew to make the show come to life. Young actors learn how to work together to create a great show. Even those who aren't team players will come to see how an acting troupe must work together in order to make the show a success.

Friendships Formed During Acting Classes Can Last Well Into Adulthood

- ▶ When you decide to send your children to acting classes, they are going to be surrounded by other children around their same age. Those children, just like yours, are going to be unique. Each child is going to bring something new and wonderful to those youth acting classes. The influence of each child is going to make every course taught different and amazing.

- ▶ One major thing that acting classes can provide is diversity. The children are going to be from all around Long Island and are going to have all types of backgrounds. This will help children be more compassionate and accepting of others, and give them the opportunity to form deep and lasting bonds with the people in those classes. The children all have a love of acting in common, which can form a foundation for a friendship that extends beyond the classes.
- ▶ If you want to give your children these benefits and more, have them come into the Long Island Acting -Actors and Filmmakers Playground for some acting classes!

► Is your child a natural performer? Does she or he enjoy being the center of attention? Then the Long Island Acting - Actors and Filmmakers Playground Acting Classes is the perfect program for your child. It will teach how to contain and direct that energy to give excellent performances, and introduce them to a world where their natural abilities are honed and focused to allow them to express themselves in these acting classes in a way that they will feel fulfilled and successful.

► If your child is shy, but still shows interest in the world of acting, then these acting classes are perfect for her or him. They gently coax out the performer in the student, making them more self-confident and teaching skills that will be not only useful in an acting career, but in socializing, public speaking and the work force. Training taught in the acting classes in the Long Island Acting - Actors and Filmmakers Playground will expose them to diversity, and help them to make life-long friends. Preparing your child for the life she or he may face is one of the best things you can do to help them succeed.

Life Lessons in Acting Class

► The Long Island Acting -Actors and Filmmakers Playground opens the world to your child. ► The Long Island Acting -Actors and Filmmakers Playground's acting classes offer a wide range of benefits, but they also teach children how to work well with others. Through scene and script work, children learn to work as a team and support one another. Another's success is seen as a success for all. Children in the Long Island Acting -Actors and Filmmakers Playground' acting classes are taught compassion for their peers. Positive reinforcement is stressed, and negative behavior is curtailed. This trains your child to be a role model, standing up for those who may need an advocate. They see themselves in the situation and know how they would like to be treated. In the Long Island Acting -Actors and Filmmakers Playground's acting classes, your child will grow as an individual, learning life skills to function successfully in society.
