The Bottom Line Sports Show

The Bottom Line Sports Show Unfiltered is where real sports talk meets real personality. Hosted by Sports aficionado Gerald Brown and former NBA player and NBA Champion, Rick Mahorn, this show pulls no punches and pulls back the curtain on the biggest stories in sports. Expect bold opinions, insider insight you won't hear anywhere else, and nonstop laughs.

GERALD BROWN

Gerald Brown, Founder of The Bottom Line Sports Show that has been a part of Sirius XM airwaves for over ten years. Born and raised in Harlem, New York, Gerald deliver sports from a fan's perspective. He has vast knowledge about sports and a stern opinion on all things sports related and otherwise. Gerald grew up having his "dream job" as a child working with the New York Knicks before heading off to college. It was his time with the Knicks, he knew he wanted work in sports. Gerald coached A.A.U basketball for over 12 years and won multiple tournaments coaching several former college All-Americans and NBA professionals.

Aside from his booming voice, Gerald adds humor to the show with his wit and light-hearted nature. A serious New York Yankees and Tampa Bay Buccaneers fan, so be forewarned, don't talk bad about his teams. He has spent time on ESPN New York, NBC Sports Radio to name a few media outlets that Gerald has shared his thoughts and views on the world of sports.

RICK MAHORN

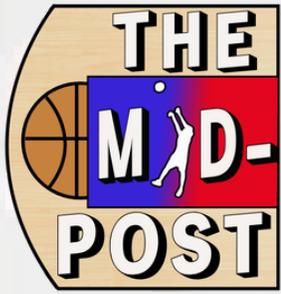

Derrick Allen "Rick" Mahorn is an 18 season NBA veteran, NBA champion and popular radio analyst for the Detroit Pistons. One of the "Bad Boys" of the Pistons' popular late-eighties team, Mahorn remains one of the most revered athletes in the city's history.

Dubbed by Pistons announcer George Blaha as the "Baddest Bad Boy of them all," Mahorn gained a reputation for his physical but effective style of play. He served as a team leader of the Detroit Bad Boys teams of the late 1980s, winning an NBA Championship in 1989 along with Hall of Famers Isiah Thomas, Joe Dumars, and Dennis Rodman.

After leaving the Pistons, Mahorn began his first stint with the Philadelphia 76ers, where he teamed with the one and only Charles Barkley to form the top-rebounding duo nicknamed "Thump N' Bump." After two seasons, Mahorn moved to the Italian Serie A for the 1991-92 season. He later returned to his stellar NBA career, playing for the New Jersey Nets and again for the 76ers and Pistons.

An intelligent and articulate basketball thinker, Mahorn enjoyed a successful career as a coach and broadcaster after he retired from playing in 1999, at the age of 40. Currently broadcasting with the Detroit Pistons Radio network.

The Mid-Post

This is a weekly NBA podcast delivering raw, insightful analysis — isolation style. Featuring eyetest breakdowns, historical context, and honest commentary, this is for fans who value courtside perspective over metrics — just pure love for the game, the way it should be.

Desmond Powell

"Wassup! I'm Desmond, host/creator of Hip 2 Da Games! I'm from Joliet, IL and when I'm not recording, you can find me playing NBA 2K, rapping, or shamelessly inhaling a party bag of Mini Reese's. I'm excited to share the love of hoops & Hip-Hop with you!"

LATE NIGHT LAKE SHOW

Late Night Lake Show is an after-hours Lakers podcast hosted by RICKY and KWAME. Join us every week as we bring on special guests and discuss all hot topics surrounding LeBron James, Anthony Davis, and the rest of our boys in Purple & Gold.

RICKY BARNES

Located in Chicago, IL Ricky is the Founder, CEO, and Chief Content Engineer for Late Night Lake Show. Passionate about his sports, Ricky is dedicated to providing listeners with premium content across all media outlets. Currently, he works as the co-host of the Late Night Lake Show Podcast as well as the host of Weekly Lakers Updates.

KWAME ADADE

Kwame Adade is a sports enthusiast out of the great city of Chicago, Illinois. Kwame is one of the amazing co-hosts of the Late Night Lake Show Podcast, as well as one of the team's video and podcast editors while also curating content for the LNLS Tiktok and YouTube Shorts platforms.

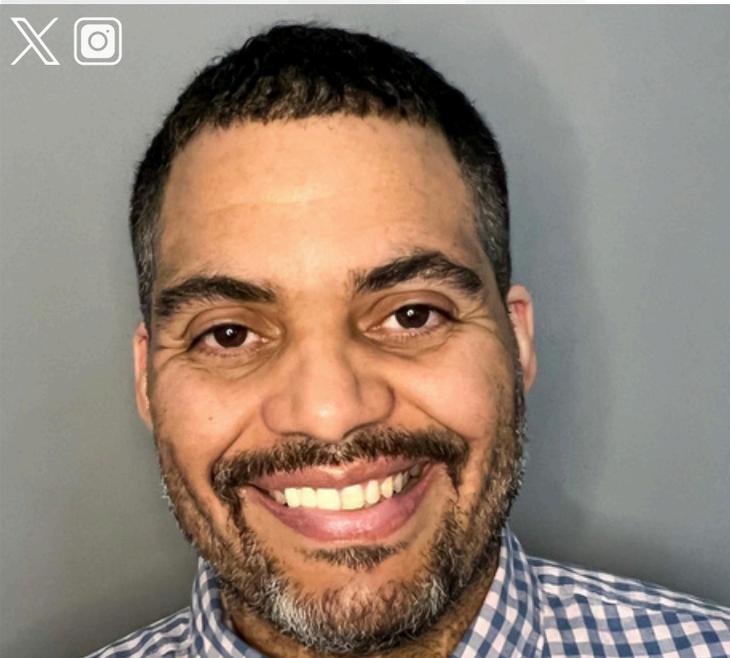

HIP HOP HIDDEN GEMS

Hip-Hop Hidden Gems is all about celebrating the music that has shaped a generation (or two). This podcast, hosted by MO & WILLIE (AKA Vision) will focus on the artforms undervalued and underappreciated. Each episode will be dedicated to a song that didn't receive its proper shine upon its initial release. Mo and Willie will revisit each track and discuss its strengths and weaknesses. They also will provide interesting tidbits of information about the songs and the artists behind the music.

WILLIE FREEMAN

Willie Freeman is co-host of Hip-Hop Hidden Gems. As an 80s and 90s Hip-Hop enthusiast, Florida-based minister, and corporate coach/mentor he brings a unique perspective to the show by blending his passion for the era with insights that run deeper than the mainstream awareness. He spends the majority of his time persuading people to take strategic steps toward their full potential.

MOLIK JOHNSON

Molik Johnson aka MoJoKing is Co-Owner of the mighty 19 Media Group. He is also the co-host of Hip-Hop Hidden Gems and Hidden Gems Football. The native New Yorker's passions fall in line with his podcasts. He loves sports; whether participating, playing in fantasy leagues or just watching. And he loves music, particularly 70's R&B & golden age hip-hop. He, along with his Hip-Hop co-host released two independent albums under the name Absolute Power. The rest of his time is dedicated to his son. Together, they play Roblox & debate mathematical theories. Mo also plays chess & believes he can crush you in a match.

HIDDEN GEMS FOOTBALL

Hidden Gems Football is hosted by MIKE STEPH and MO JOHNSON. Each week, the two podcast veterans will take aim at the upcoming NFL action. Which picks are guarantees? Who will hit the over? Who are the "survivors?" MIKE and MO offer their unique perspectives.

HIDDEN GEMS
--- FOOTBALL ---

MIKE STEPH

Michael A. Stephens aka Mike Steph is Co-host of Hidden Gems Football. He is also the host and creator of his independent podcast "The Salty Thoughts of Mike Steph Podcast".

THE MIXED COMPANY PODCAST

Prepare for a knockout punch! Boxing analyst JAMIESON and the irreverent LUIS team up to deliver a no-holds-barred podcast. They delve into the shadowy corners of the boxing industry, exposing the power plays and political maneuvers that shape the sport.

X JAMIESON WELSH

Jamesion Welsh is a Vegas citizen who enjoys great food and good music. He has worked at places like ESPN radio and numerous websites where has provided insight on anything from sports betting, his beloved Lakers, to the NBA draft. He loves all sports but nothing replaces a big "fight night!"

LUIS MONTEMAYOR

Luis Montemayor is self-described as Arizona's favorite award-winning blogger. His passions include highlighting local beer, wine, food & dive bars. Luis is a proud boxing fan with historical knowledge of the sport's nuances in business, cultural impact and famous fights.

GIMMICK INFRINGEMENT X

BRAD and TYLER, two friends and lifelong fans of professional wrestling, mark out over the latest in pro wrestling, laugh about family, and talk about the latest in pop culture. Each week, they show their unique perspectives and personalities through entertaining segments and banter. Gimmick Infringement is a two-time nominee for Best Wrestling Podcast from the Sports Podcast Awards.

BRAD WINCHESTER

Brad Winchester is co-host of Gimmick Infringement, a weekly podcast focused on professional wrestling and pop culture. He is a long-time Arizonan by way of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan and is always looking to learn something new. When he isn't teaching or working on the podcast, he can be found tearing through television series, playing a video game, woodworking, writing, or wrestling with his daughter.

Tyler McDowell-Blanken

Tyler McDowell-Blanken is co-host of Gimmick Infringement, a weekly professional wrestling and pop culture-based podcast. He is also the host of 4AZ. He is a native of Arizona and an avid WNBA fan. When not working or studying at Arizona State University, Tyler is likely to be shopping for red delicious apples, watching WCW Rey Mysterio highlights, or trying to convince a friend that Take Care is Drake's best album.

Inclusive Pathways

Inclusive Pathways is a podcast where we break down barriers, build connections, and reimagine what true inclusion looks like. Hosted by JESSICA, CEO of Inclusive Pathways and longtime disability inclusion strategist, each episode dives into real conversations with leaders, advocates, and people with lived experience.

JESSICA WINCHESTER

Jessica Winchester is the co-host and producer of SmallTownUSA and A Prude Awakening, two podcasts that layer in comedy, history, travel, education, and culture.
