I'm Wendy Solomon, the proud owner of Awaekken Spa in Metairie, Louisiana. My skincare journey began with my own skin woes, leading me down a rabbit hole of products and tools that can transform the skin. Spoiler alert: it's fascinating stuff!

Once I cracked the code on how skin behaves, I knew I had to help others battling breakouts, sensitivity, hyperpigmentation, wrinkles, sagging, and all the other things we find our skin doing to us. It's not just about looking good; it's about feeling good. I'm on a mission to give people their confidence and self-esteem back, one facial at a time.

My husband, Roy, and I tied the knot on Friday the 13th of December, 1985. He's my best friend, my rock, and he helps out – sometimes willingly – when I need to try out new products and techniques. Before his retirement, Roy was an energy healer, which sparked my interest in wellness. I've since mingled with numerous wellness gurus and learned about the incredible power of holistic practices. At Awaekken Spa, we blend skincare with wellness, with a special focus on natural treatments and modalities.

Outside of work, I like nature walks, chocolate, animals, sparkly things, chocolate, reading books or watching movies (especially horror), and did I mention chocolate? Past pets have included cats, dogs, frogs, spiders, and rats, and I really do like all living things except for mosquitos. I'm also a bit of a thrill-seeker, having skydived and bungee jumped. If you ever want to shake things up, let's jump off something together!

Connect with me on Facebook or through my web page and we can talk about your skin and wellness needs.
