A humble dignified woman finds joy in all situations as she is simply thankful to embrace the planet. She could drive an expensive luxury car or a betsy thst won't make it that far. Either way circumstances don't define her as she will still take pride in who she is.

She could be a housekeeper or a first class lady either way it won't define her character as she is not defined by material substances. She must be reluctant to using her body as an object, because queens don't do that. She must pick herself up above arrogance and last, but not least live in your truth, because people can always see through a person living a lie and it will be hard for anyone to trust you.
