New Partnership Announcement: WCS2 x DataCamp Donates

We are proud to announce a new partnership between the Women CyberSecurity Society (WCS2) and DataCamp Donates, a program that provides access to world-class data and tech education to underrepresented communities across the globe.

Starting June 23, 2025, WCS2 members, account holders and scholarship recipients will gain access to DataCamp's platform—offering industry-aligned courses in cybersecurity, data science, analytics, and programming. This powerful collaboration will further support our mission to recruit, retrain, and retain more women in the cybersecurity workforce.

Amplifying Our Impact

This new partnership augments our existing programs and scholarship opportunities, expanding the tools and pathways available to women pursuing careers in cybersecurity. By providing additional access to practical, in-demand skills training, we're equipping our community with the knowledge, confidence, and support to not only enter the field—but to thrive and lead.

Whether you're an aspiring analyst, mid-career switcher, or experienced professional seeking to upskill, this collaboration ensures you have access to flexible, self-paced learning to match your goals.

A Message from Lisa Kearney

Founder, International Women in Cyber Day (IWCD) & Women CyberSecurity Society (WCS2)

> "Our partnership with DataCamp marks an exciting new chapter in our ongoing mission to advance gender equity in cybersecurity. It strengthens the foundation we've built through existing scholarships and outreach, helping more women get the skills they need to succeed. At WCS2 and through International Women in Cyber Day, we're making a more inclusive, equitable future—one opportunity at a time."

A Message from DataCamp

Social Impact Manager, Mafer Bencomo at DataCamp

> "At DataCamp, our mission is to democratize access to essential data and AI skills, empowering millions of people globally through our unique learn-by-doing methodology. Our partnership with the Women CyberSecurity Society (WCS2) is a powerful embodiment of this mission. We are thrilled to provide WCS2 members access to our comprehensive platform, including over 500 interactive courses and opportunities to earn industry-recognized certifications. This collaboration directly supports WCS2's vital work in recruiting, retraining, and retaining more women in the cybersecurity workforce."

We're excited to roll out this learning program and will be sharing more details with our members soon. Help us celebrate by tagging @WomenCSSociety and @DataCamp and using the hashtag #TippingTheScale—a rallying call we'll continue to use to spotlight progress and impact through WCS2 and IWCD since 2018.

Together, we're creating change—one learner, one career, one community at a time.
