

Structured Water Portable Unit

You are about to experience a new version of healthy water known as Structured Water. Inside each of these devices is a specifically designed flow form that causes the water going through them to spin both directions simultaneously, creating a double vortexing action. This motion simulates how water moves naturally down a stream or river. This action energetically breaks up water's memory of toxic overload and reduces the number of water molecules, making hydration more available at the cellular level to all life. This simple and effective technology is conveniently encased in high quality and durable food grade plastic to make an attractive addition to your home or to use while traveling. The hand held Portable unit is very versatile and easily goes everywhere. To use, simply pour water, (or any other beverage), through the funnel end and capture it from the spigot end into a drinking glass or other container. Adding a small amount of Structured Water will instantly structure a much larger amount of water. You can put the same water through your Portable unit multiple times and increase the energy of the water every time it passes through the unit. Fill a small 1-2ounce spray top glass bottle with your highly "charged" water and carry it with you for a convenient way to instantly structure the water in any beverage or food. Just add a couple of sprays!

Let me know how you're enjoying your Structured Water Unit.

I have developed different units that will structure water for every application which I invite you explore.

From my heart to your health and well being,

Clayton Nolte
inventor and founder
Natural Action Technologies
970-946-5804