ABOUT EXAMS

Congratulations on your decision to participate in dance examination in 2024.

So why do we do examinations? There is value in undertaking exams as they assist our students to develop not just strong technique and polished performances, but exams offer other opportunities to develop attributes that will serve them well throughout their life. They help to develop discipline, resilience, emotionally and physically, they provide a wonderful example of goal setting and they provide a brilliant sense of accomplishment.

We would like to thank you, your children and our teachers for continuing to support our examinations. At this time of year there is the anxiousness around exams for everyone, teachers, students and parents and we would like to make a few observations and comments to all of our students, parents and teachers.

IMPORTANT NOTES

Successfully completing an examination should be celebrated rather than a focus on the credit level achieved. Naturally we aim for students to achieve THEIR personal best and we are cognisant that this is also important to the students. It is imperative that our expectations remain realistic. With so many other events, other than exams, requiring student focus, it is important that we manage our students time, health and joy of dance at this very special time. The very progressive nature of the CSTD syllabi means that at each level greater technique, strength and maturity are required.

As students progress throughout the grades and the work becomes more challenging, the requirements on them increase and their dance experiences widen. While all students are performing to their best there are also good and not so good days. On exam day, the examiner is the only person who actually sees this. Despite what 'should have happened' it doesn't always go that way on the day. Please help to keep expectations realistic and support your student to be very proud of completing their examination. Your teachers do an outstanding job and they want every one of their students to achieve their personal best. It is imperative however that we celebrate all successes and achievements. This is what will keep students engaged, happy and emotionally happy, and ultimately retains their very special joy of dance.
