ACCESS JUSTICE IS NEW NAME OF TRIPLE TWELVE MINISTRIES, INC.

Metro Christian Legal Aid (MCLA) is now officially Access Justice

Louisville, KY – After nearly six years of operations, Triple Twelve Ministries Inc., formerly operating under the name Metro Christian Legal Aid (MCLA), is now legally operating as “Access Justice.”

Access Justice’s Executive Director, Carl L. Williams Sr., stated, “As an organization, our desire is to be inclusive during a period of time where too many have been denied access to justice, so our new name reflects to the members of our community our mission to serve all people and to demonstrate and exemplify the love that our faith teaches us.”

As the organization continues to offer more and more opportunities for underserved individuals to find legal help, the new name represents the true reach of its services. Pro bono legal assistance has always been available to anyone who comes for help, with no limitation of income, life situation or beliefs, yet now the name better describes the entire goal of the organization.

About Access Justice:

Access Justice is an IRS registered 501(c)(3) organization since 2014 serving individuals seeking justice, regardless of their age, ability or disability, sex, ethnicity, nationality, religion, or sexual orientation. Access Justice offers weekly and monthly clinics where volunteer attorneys provide clients with 45-60 minutes of pro bono legal advice and counsel.
