Meet the Cast

Sara Baker has taken theatre for the past 3 years and has enjoyed every class she gets to experience. She worked on sound for our production of One Acts last year and had her first acting performance in One Acts this year! Sara loves spending time doing something she loves but enjoys it even more doing it with the people she loves.

Joy Bektor has already taken Theater 1 and is currently in Theatre 2 and Acting 1 classes this year. Joy has done duet acting, is working on a monologue, and has written some scripts. Joy loves theatre, acting, and being able to communicate with others through these activities and performances.

Aitana Caparas is happy to play Borachio. Borachio is a very interesting character who comes up with clever little schemes, which is fun to explore as a character. Aitana loved working with all of the cast, especially acting through the scenes with Verges and Dogberry. Although acting is challenging, working onstage was enjoyable and taught Aitana about being an actor.

Nicolas DeAssis has been in two Stanton plays (Women of Lockerbie and You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown) and has written multiple plays featured in the night of one acts (Thankless Dinner, RGHS, and Who Done Did It?) He is also performing in Pippin at Theatre Jacksonville from June 9-25!

Alec Jones has done theater at Stanton for the past 3 years across Theatre 1, Theatre 2, and Acting 1. This would be the first truly big assignment he's done in class, and the only time he's done one before an audience that wasn't one of his theatre peers. Alec has performed a variety of roles across multiple years of theatre class.

Vineet Khanolkar is looking forward to make his debut before an audience on the Black Box stage.

Jordan Lyle is excited to participate in her first theatre production. She looks forward to pursuing acting later in life. She enjoys athletics and movies in her free time.

Jack Mullin has been at Stanton for a couple years but has only recently made his acting debut in the 2023 One-Acts Show. He is looking forward to acting in this production because acting is exciting. He plays guitar and enjoys fishing.

Meet the Cast

Scarlett Perez participated in this year's One Act plays after several years of Theater at Stanton, and is excited to return to the Black Box for an in-class performance.

Niek Rezaei looks forward to his stage debut at Stanton. He enjoys rowing and playing the piano.

Samuel Salib is from Egypt and is currently a junior at Stanton college prep. He is a huge outdoor guy and love to fish and hunt. If he's not outside, he is playing FIFA on his PlayStation. He first joined the theatre to help improve his speaking skills and get over stage fright. He has taken theatre for 3 years now and has learned so much about theatrical history and picked up many acting/vocal techniques too.

Dani Samkutty has had experience with theatre and many classes including Theatre 1, Pre-IB theatre, and currently IB theatre. He has done lots of acting with pantomimes and general theatre in theatre 1, and done recreations of historical content in Pre-IB theatre. He has learned a lot about the different forms of theatre and their history. Currently in IB theatre he is learning lots about props, costumes, and the intricacies of theatre.

Ariyani Thompkins happily anticipates her return to the stage after her debut at Stanton's 32nd Night of One Act Plays.

Gabrielle Seals (right) participated in 2022's and 2023's Night of One Act Plays and in Stanton's most recent musical production, You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown.

José Toledo-Álvarez plays the noble, honorable and completely justified Count Claudio in this production (he did nothing wrong). Mr. Toledo began theatre with last year's Night of One Act Plays and has gone on to qualify and attend the States Thespian Festival (and getting a superior score). He has also been an usher for multiple Stanton productions so you may recognize his face, or not. Regardless, he hopes you enjoy this play and have a good time!

Joshua Yllanes has been in no plays before this one, but eager to try to be in a play and make his acting debut. He has participated in acting classes outside of school, as well as two previous theater classes at Stanton.
