GeoGraphic Gems Line Sheet

WHOLESALE* 2021/2022

*We also accept consignment accounts

GeoGraphic Gems may look like semi-precious stones, but these "gems" are actually made from vintage National Geographic magazine pages, marbled to create eye-catching brilliant colors and designs. Each handcrafted GeoGem is mounted on a high-quality bezel, and locked in and made water resistant with a solid glass dome.

There are many ways your customers can enjoy GeoGraphic Gems: earrings, pendants, bracelets, barrettes, keychains & more!

Handcrafted in Keene, New Hampshire.

Thank you

Hi there! I'm Marcia Passos, the creator of GeoGraphic Gems ... and thank you so much for downloading this line sheet! I look forward to supplying your store with colorful and fast-moving GeoGraphic jewelry. GeoGems are in more than 15 stores throughout the New England area, and growing! Here's what one retailer (Hannah Grimes Marketplace in Keene, NH) had to say: " Marcia's jewelry has been selling extremely well as she continues to be in the top 10 best selling member list each month (out of 282 members). Additionally, Marcia always fulfills our orders promptly and constantly has something new and exciting to share with us and our customers!"

BIO

A little about me: I was born in Brazil (to a Brazilian dad and Portuguese mom), raised in the U.S. and I'm now living in New England. Folks in my region of New Hampshire may know me as an editor and publisher of regional magazines. But I also love to collect vintage National Geographic magazines. I discovered a technique to transform vintage National Geographic magazines into works of art quite by accident when an artist friend showed me the work she was creating by marbleizing the pages with citric acid. The process dissolves the ink on the pages, creating brilliant abstract designs.

I have been a hobby jewelry maker for many years and realized that bezels with glass domes would be the ideal way to lock in and magnify the unique colors and designs of this paper. Most people have not seen anything like it!

I know your customers will enjoy the cool colors this process creates and feel good wearing this jewelry knowing that the "gems" are a beautiful use of recycled material.
