

BIOGRAPHY

Yasmine Othman is an award-winning multilingual Spanish actress recognized for her versatility, emotional depth and commanding screen presence. Working across film, television and theatre, she has built an international career portraying complex, character-driven roles in both European and global productions.

Born into a family of multicultural artists, Yasmine is of Moroccan, Turkish and Spanish heritage on her father's side, and French and Portuguese heritage on her mother's. Her artistic legacy spans generations—from her grandfather Abderrahman, an accomplished violinist, clarinetist and performer, to her aunt Assia, a respected actress from Tangier, and her mother Alexandrina Augusta, a renowned circus trapeze artist.

In 2022, Yasmine received the Spanish Actors' Union Award for Best Supporting Actress for her acclaimed performance in La Unidad S2 (Movistar+), one of Spain's most celebrated television dramas.

Her recent credits include portraying Doña Marga in The Walking Dead: Daryl Dixon Seasons 3 & 4 (AMC+), a role that earned her a pre-selection nomination for Best Actress in an International Television Production 2025 by the Spanish Actors' Union. She also stars in the Emirati television series Dara and the feature film Small Town Funk Girls.

Fluent in English (US), Spanish, French and Italian, and proficient in Darija (Moroccan Arabic) with a strong command of multiple accents, Yasmine regularly works across international productions requiring linguistic versatility and cultural authenticity.

Drawn to period dramas, elevated thrillers and psychologically complex characters, she is passionate about telling stories that explore resilience, identity and the human condition. Whether leading or supporting, Yasmine brings authenticity, emotional precision and a strong cinematic presence to every performance.

Alongside her acting career, she is the founder of Othman Legacy Group, through which she offers professional acting coaching and specialised audiovisual translation services for scripts, subtitles and international productions, supporting filmmakers and actors working across languages and cultures.
