

Ryan Tillman, a seasoned Police Officer in Southern California, is the founder of Breaking Barriers United, Host of the well-known #ITSNEEDED podcast, Best-Selling Author, and viral YouTube sensation. Corporal Tillman has dedicated his career to bridging the gap between law enforcement and the communities they serve, tackling biases, and reforming modern policing. He is a transformative advocate for equality, an inspirational leader, and a fearless voice for unifying people and resolving conflict.

Today's leaders face challenges akin to those encountered by law enforcement, navigating the intricate relationships within diverse communities.

Ryan's answer? Lead with love. Lead with empathy. Lead with respect.

Once harboring disdain for law enforcement, Ryan Tillman made a remarkable shift, becoming a police officer. Leveraging his innate ability to connect with individuals from diverse backgrounds, he has fought biases and reshaped the landscape of modern-day policing.

In a society that often demands choosing sides, Ryan advocates for the lost art of building relationships with those who differ from us. His influence extends beyond his uniform, evident in the immense success of his #ITSNEEDED podcast, which has been downloaded over a million times in just over five years. Breaking Barriers United has over 700K followers and 100 million+ views over all platforms. Additionally, he authored "Happy Eyes: Becoming All Things To All People."

Ryan empowers all who encounter him to remember their WHY and lead with courage.
