

Setting the Stage: Promoting Social-Emotional Health in Young Children

Social and emotional development, a critical aspect of overall brain development, begins at birth. Social-emotional skills are nurtured through daily routine, language, and play. They are the foundations of social competence that affect a child's ability to adapt in school and to form successful relationships throughout life. This workshop on social and emotional health provides parents and professionals tips and tools for helping children in these critical areas. This workshop is designed for parents and professionals of children, from birth through kindergarten entry.

Pre-Registration is required for this event. Please make sure that each individual attending registers separately.
