DESCRIPTION

April 25 - Learning to Talk: The Development of Speech-Language Skills in Children

One of the most important milestones for young children is the development of speech and language. Childcare professionals can support the development of these language skills through meaningful interactions and engagement with children. This workshop will help participants learn about communication behaviors and how to recognize communication milestones, explore ways to facilitate the development of speech and language skills and discuss concerns in speech-language development.

Extension Extras Professional Hour is a free online series of childcare workshops that provide guidance for childcare professionals and caregivers of young children.

HOW TO REGISTER:
