About NEMPS

North Eastern Medical Pharmacological Society (NEMPS)

The North Eastern Medical Pharmacological Society (NEMPS) is a professional body dedicated to the promotion and advancement of pharmacology in North East India. It serves as a unifying platform for pharmacologists, medical educators, clinicians, and researchers to collaborate and contribute to the academic and clinical growth of pharmacology, with both regional relevance and national impact.

The society promotes the adoption of modern pharmacological principles, evidence-based medicine, and innovations such as pharmacogenomics, pharmacovigilance, and rational therapeutics.

A key initiative of the society is its annual academic conference, NEMPSCON, which rotates among medical institutions in the region. This event fosters academic exchange, showcases ongoing research, and encourages young pharmacologists and postgraduate students to present their work, build networks, and receive mentorship from senior experts.

By bridging traditional knowledge with modern science, and strengthening collaboration between institutions and professionals, NEMPS contributes meaningfully to the development of pharmacology. It also aligns itself with national healthcare priorities, thereby playing a significant role in improving pharmacological education, research standards, and ultimately, patient care across India. Through its initiatives, NEMPS continues to evolve as a driving force for excellence in medical pharmacology.
