

WOMEN of Southwestern PA April Social

Love to Read? Go to the Library? This Event is for You!

The social committee has planned the April social around a literary theme where our members will have the opportunity to learn about the many services and programs Peters Township Library has to offer our community.

As an exciting bonus, we have invited and confirmed that two local, best-selling women authors (Annette Dashofy and Linda Rettstatt) will join us to speak about their journey as a writer and highlight some of their books. You should have received a previous email providing their names and biographies, so you have some background information about them, and if desired, do a little research of your own before our event. There will be time for members to meet each author and ask them questions. The authors will have many titles of their books available for sale that evening as well. They both accept cash and checks.
