Hello everyone...

While I am continuing to make progress with the "Mrs. Weddington's Yard" novella project, much of my time is briefly being redirected to one of my screenwriting projects that has recently caught the attention of certain parties. So, a bit of suggested tweaking to the script here and there. I don't really know whether anything will ever come of it, after all another screenplay that I actually sold a couple of years ago has yet to be produced, but who knows...

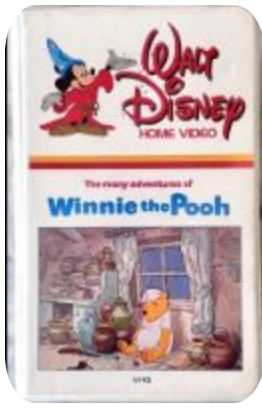

David

"The older I get, the more clearly I remember things that never happened."

— Mark Twain

This Issue's Quote...

Another life observation from Mark Twain.

The Many Adventures of Winnie the Pooh

I was reminded of this the other day... we bought our first VCR in 1983, a top-loader from Radio Shack, along with a box of 10 blank tapes. I was working swing shift and I didn't want to miss the V miniseries. We also bought our first movie on VHS that day: "The Many Adventures of Winnie the Pooh" from 1977. You know... for the kids.

Broken Sky Screenplay Top Finalist

I received an email the other day:

"Your script was chosen as a top finalist in the Season 3 Screenplay competition."

– HollywoodGenre Sci-Fi Screenplay Competition

They stated they'll be sending the screenplay's logline out to their industry contacts. Meantime, the script advances to the competition's final for winner.

"It's the kind of story that's easy to get into and hard to put down. I liked that it had a little mystery, a little magic, and a lot of heart." -- Jennifer Senick for Readers' Favorite

"Author David R. Beshears writes with an emotional intelligence that makes the big concepts hit even harder. I was fascinated by how the Shylmahn weren't cartoon villains like you so often see in alien stories like this. They had their logic and their own sense of mission that made perfect sense and was well-described."
