

Expanding the Voice of Civility Worldwide: Launch of Congress for Global Communication

By Dr. Sonya A. Robinson

On January 14, 2022, Dr. Sonya Robinson, World Civility Ambassador, Global Peace Ambassador, President and Creator of I Change Nations (ICN) Congress for Global Communications along with Special Advisor, President of ICN, King Okogeyman Obremponnsu Kobina Amissah I (Sir Clyde Rivers), Development King in Ghana, launched the International Congress for Global Communications (CGC).

The Congress for Global Communications exists to promote diverse and inclusive dialogue resulting in civility for all. The mission of the Congress is to build global connections and communications for the advancement of sustainable development goals by providing, training, policy recommendations, and empowerment forums with an overall scope of transforming the world. Through various platforms the CGC seeks to:

1. Encourage dialogue
2. Impact humanity through collaborative global communication
3. Be a resource and authority for sustainable development goals

The Executive Board Member of the CGC are renown Civility and Global Ambassadors for Change. Along with Dr. Robinson and King Amissah, Dr. Phinehas Kinuthia, Dr. Krystille Richardson, Dr.

Sharon Anderson, Dr. Charles Bennin and Dr. Albert Nasasagare, the Board believes that Sustainable Development Goals are the blueprint to achieve a better and more equitable future for all. The CGC works to address the global challenges we face including Climate Change, Environmental Degradation, Financial and Wealth Equity, Health and Wellness, Inequality, Justice and Peace, Poverty and Quality Education. Unlike many platforms the CGC seeks to empower leaders by using their voice to speak up and out on real global issues. During CGC events, publications, seminars, and summits, leaders learn strategies and tools to assist them in building connections around the globe to impact change while creating a more diverse and inclusive world.

The CGC provides a safe platform to learn and discuss global issues led by renowned leaders from their respective fields, while ensuring civility in communications at all times. The CGC strives to positively change how the world is viewed and encourage civility for all by creating opportunities for growth utilizing communication tools.

The CGC reaches across all ages and is essential to sustainability. Believing that communication is imperative among all generations, the CGC seeks to close the widening gaps between ages, beliefs, and culture.

In executing the work for each sustainable goal our Team leaders are experienced global innovators in their own right: Dr. Frank Kanu Kanu, Dr. Lotus Riche', Dr. Eric Holmes, Dr. Soyum Shah, Professor Mateus Mutola, Professor Vernet Joseph, Dr. Manoj Shah, Dr. Rebecca Finlason-Harper and Co-Team Leader Dr. Nashon Juma.

Over the next few months CGC plans to host various forums around the world in 2022.
