

Artist:
Teresa Suydam

About:

Teresa Suydam is a non-binary, BIPOC artist and songwriter from Denver, Colorado. Gravitating towards music by Panic! At The Disco, Stray Kids, BTS, Blackpink, Ruby Ibarra, and several anime shows, Teresa's music career started by performing in local venues with various groups, which soon extended to venues across the states and even the world. Eventually, Teresa decided to branch off to start a solo career in 2020.

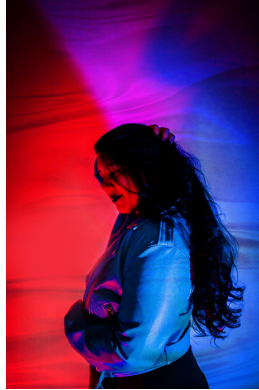

Teresa's music is rooted in their versatile performance experience, being able to reach the most graceful high notes and control strong, emotional low notes, while also being able to hit the dynamic runs and belts of a modern soul artist.

Teresa has worked tirelessly to develop their artistry and message in their music and lyrics.

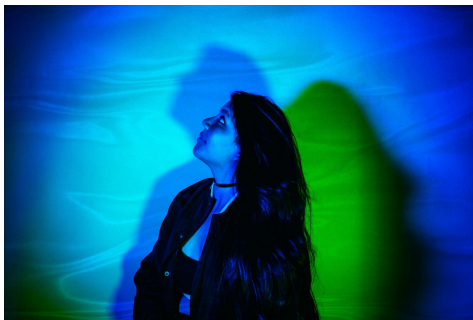

Since 2020, Teresa has been focusing on building their songwriting craft, output, and building a steady following. Teresa has played big virtual events such as Rocky Mountain Virtual, WomxnCrushMusic, and Virtual Pride; as well as in-person shows at the DCPA, Swallow Hill Music, and the Denver Botanic Gardens for their Evenings Al Fresco series two years in a row. In 2021, Teresa was in KTCL's Top 10 for Hometown for the Holidays, and in 2022 was a Local 303 artist of March, a nominee for the Native American Music Awards (NAMA), and featured in Native Max Magazine.
