

Chris Reuland
Teacher and Founder

My journey into languages began in my childhood. I grew up in a family of mixed culture in which we spoke both English and French. By age 6, I was learning Dutch in the Belgian school system and carried on juggling with 3 languages until I went to college and learned German at age 32.

At university, I completed a Master's Degree in Linguistics and Literature. I topped it off with an extra year to become a teacher (PGCE) of foreign languages.

I am British, Belgian and Luxemburgish and am married to my American wife Lee-Ann from the state of Connecticut.

OuiCommunicate is a bilingual language learning platform which I first thought up in 2018. Meeting speakers of English learning French soon had me realize how easy it was for me to connect with them and adapt my teaching to their first language which I knew so well.

At this point in time, OuiCommunicate can cover the larger part of the French language. There is an exercise for most topics and a personal guarantee that an exercise will be made on any topic a student feels is missing.

I hope you enjoy learning French with us!

Sincerely,

Chris
