

COVID-19 SUPPORT FROM VIRTUS GROUP

As the novel coronavirus COVID-19 continues to spread globally, we want to share with you some steps we've been taking to help provide full service to our clients. Part of Virtus' business model is to restrict work-related travel for our team, work as much as possible remotely and lean into the technology available.

Since our inception in 2018, our firm has emphasized the value of systems that enable working remotely. We also invested in a primarily cloud-based infrastructure to maximize flexibility for our people to meet client needs without traditional geographic dependency. We have an extraordinary in-house technology team and we've re-doubled efforts to confirm that each consultant has the skills and resources to work regularly from home.

Finally, we recognize that our life sciences clients' clinical trials, CMC, and other research, development, and commercialization operations have been, and likely will be, affected by this pandemic - and we have organized several firm working groups around each of these areas. We believe that servicing our client at its best is counseling, and while we may not have answers to every question, we will continue to support our clients, and their work to address unmet medical needs, with our collective knowledge and experience, and with our best judgment.
