GURU

For just a few dollars per day, Golf Industry Guru is a membership-based website updated daily for online learning to help golf course owners, operators, and their team members achieve greater success.

Currently with over 240 hours of golf business specific training content, GIG provides various resources, and expert advice from numerous industry leaders on golf club management, and it can benefit every team member working at your club by providing them with tools and knowledge to improve their skills and performance in their roles.

GIG is a virtual community that's powered on 24/7...it's where the best get better, and where tomorrow's leaders learn from today's success stories.

Taking advantage of the lessons we've learned in the golf industry, and with our global industry connections, GIG brings together a unique collection of industry experts from around the world who share their expertise and experiences to help you and your team find the solutions you need to your specific golf business challenges.

On the GIG website you will find education, training, tools, templates, and tips from the brightest and most successful golf and hospitality industry leaders in the world.

Plus, the educational content isn't just for senior leadership team members. On-board and train your front line team members more effectively and efficiently with GIG!
