Kirby is an adorable Yorkshire terrier puppy who loves his life. Although he sometimes gets into mischief, his mom gives him unconditional love and takes good care of him. Full of innocence and adoration, Kirby tells about his relationship with Mom and tenderly reveals a bond with her that is near to spiritual. Filling each page of this delightful story of friendship, caring, and faith are photos of Victoria Holt Abramson's precious dog, Kirby, surrounded by the beautiful, stylish illustrations of Bryan Chung. Cleverly hidden within the pages are twenty-two of Kirby's favorite toys. Can you find them?

Victoria Holt Abramson has always loved children and animals, especially pets and their antics. The author of Southern Dishes Flavored the Season, published in Reminisce Magazine, December 2005, she enjoyed a successful career in real estate before finding her true passion of teaching third-graders in public school. Vicky earned a Bachelor of Arts in Fine Arts from the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg, Virginia, and a Master of Arts in Teaching from the University of Louisville in Kentucky. Now a retired elementary school teacher, she's currently developing and finishing projects, like an invention business and other writing and creative endeavors. The mother of two grown boys, Timothy and Jacob, Vicky lives in Valencia, California. She loves ballroom, swing, and Latin dance, gardening, cooking, hiking, traveling, watercolor painting, writing stories about growing up in her beloved hometown of Hopewell, Virginia, and of course, spoiling her precious Kirby-Boy.
